WILL THEY ACCEPT?

There Are Surface Indications Pointing to Refusal on the Part of Miners.

WILL LOOK TO PRESIDENT MITCHELL

Mr. Mitchell, Secretary-Treasurer Wilson and the Three District Presidents Will Meet and Talk Matters Over and Something May Come of It.

STRIKE HEADQUARTERS VERY LIVELY

WILKESBARRE, Oct. 15.—From a thorough canvass of the situation as it exists today there is every indication for believing that the new arbitration plan proposed by the presidents of the coal carrying railroads for ending the miners' strike will not be accepted in its present form. There is a division of opinion among the strikers, but there is no doubt that a majority feel that the offer to have the President of the United States to select the arbitration commission along the lines suggested by the operators is not fair and that it unduly limits the President in making up the board.

The miners, it is safe to say, will abide by the advice of their national president, in whose judgment they have the utmost confidence. He declines to say how he personally looks upon the proposition, but gave to the press the following statement:

"I fully appreciate with what anxiety the people of our country are awaiting the end of the coal strike. The coal operators have not addressed the miners' union or its officers in making their public statement. It is, therefore, impossible for me to state the attitude of the miners at this time. I am now, as I have always been, deeply solicitous for the interests of the public and the welfare of the Mine Workers who have been on strike for the past five months. A formal statement defining our position and intentions will be issued just as soon as we are in possession of the full meaning of the proposition of operators."

This statement was made by him at 8 o'clock after a silence lasting all day. He had no intention of making it until the correspondents representing newspapers all over the country called upon him in a body and informed him that the general public desired to have an answer to the proposition of the operators. After giving it he was asked many questions regarding the attitude of the men and the probability of the acceptance or rejection of the new offer, but to all of them he had no reply to make. He denied that he had any knowledge of what the new offer of the operators was until it became public property, and also denied that he was in telphonic communication with President Roosevelt.

The district presidents also maintain silence as to their personal opinion on the situation, exceping President Fahy, who after he arrived from Boston Tuesday, gave an inkling as to how he viewed the new turn of affairs. In reply to a query he said:

"The strike cannot be settled without the consent of the men. We are not dealing in gold bricks of any kind; and you can make any deduction from that you want."

There will be a conference today beween Mr. Mitchell, the three district presidents and Secretary-Treasurer Wilson.

The situation around the collieries was partially lost sight of because of Monday night's developments, but there was no material changes from that of the day. The arbitration talk has acted as a check on the movement of men returning to work, and it is probable there will be no great movement in this direction until some definite conclusion is reached in the arbitration scheme. The prospect for a coal supply to meet the rapidly approaching cold weather is by no means bright. If the miners should accept the arbitration plan of the operators, it would take at least two weeks before the details of sending them back could be worked out. As the outlook for arbitration is rather dark, it can be safely said that there will be little more coal on the market for some time to come than there is at present.

The Prairie Zinc and Lead Company.

We copy the following from one of our exchanges, "The Joplin Daily Globe," and reprint it as a matter of news, knowing it to be of interest to most of our readers, who already have knowledge of the immense profit being made by the Blue Jacket Mining and Milling Company, located adjacent to this enterprise, and under practically the same management. The officers of this corporation are of our own best citizens with Ellis L. Orvis, Esq., as President; J. C. Meyer, Esq., Secretary and Treasurer; and Robert F. Hunter, General Manager.

"The Little Four milliand lease on the J. B. Davis land was sold last week to the Prairie Zinc and Lead company, of Bellefonte, Pa. The new company is composed of several members of the Blue Jacket company, who have already proved their ability to handle mining properties successfully in this camp. They are splendid business men and have plenty of money, which is just as necessary in mining, as other commercial pursuits. Not only that, but they have the proper staying qualities, and are not afraid to spend money when there is a chance of such large returns as are being received from Granby mines. The Little Four property is undoubtedly one of the best mining propositions in the camp. The lease joins the famous Mascot and Homestake mines, the richest in the entire mining district. Grant Winchester, one of the best miners in the camp, has been secured to superintend the work of developing the property, and a shaft will be put down to open up a rich body of zinc ore found with a drill under the old works."

REDUCED RATES TO CLEVELAND OHIO.

Via Pennsylvania Railroad, Account General Missionary Convention of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

On account of the General Missionary Convention of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at Cleveland, Ohio, October 21 to 24, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to Cleveland, October 20 and 21, good to return, leaving Cleveland until October 27, inclusive, from all stations on its lines, at reduced rates.

A Blizzard, Says DeVoe.

DeVoe, the weather prophet, in his predictions for October says that we will have a remarkable warm spell of weather for this time of year for the next two weeks, with regular July thunderstorms. There will be heavy rains, and southeasterly gales along the Atlantic coast on October 18 and 19. The cold wave from the West will not reach us until October 24. Then look out for trying times among the poor. There will be a blizzard, October 31.

A SETTLEMENT NEAR

Conclude to Allow the President to Appoint a Commission on the Strike.

QUESTIONS TO BE REFERRED

To This Body and its Decision Shall be Accepted by the Operators When Given—Miners to Return to Work.

COMMISSION TO CONSIST OF FIVE

WASHINGTON, October 14.—Secretary Cortelyou, by authority of those present at the white house, made public the following authorized statement concerning the conference at the white house Monday.

Mr. J. P. Morgan came to Washington with his partner, Mr. Bacon, at the request of the coal companies, who desired that as a matter of courtesy their statement should be shown to the president before it was made public. Having been laid before the president by Mr. Morgan, it is now given to the press.

To the Public:—The managers of the different coal properties comprising the anthracite coal fields, with their position in the present strike to be understood, and therefore make the following statement of facts:

There are in the anthracite regions about seventy-five operating companies and firms, and 147,000 miners and workmen (of which 30,000 are under age), comprising some twenty nationalities and dialects.

Of these workmen possibly one-half belong to the United Mine Workers' union, of which Mr. John Mitchel is president. That organization was originally formed in the bituminous coal region, and three-fourths of its members are miners of bituminous coal, and bituminous coal is sold in active competition with anthracite coal. The remaining workmen in the anthracite fields either belong to no union whatever or do not belong to the Mine Workers' union.

The present strike was declared by the Mine Workers' union on the 10th day of May, 1902. Since that time many workmen belonging to or not willing to follow that organization, were working in and about the mines. From 17,000 to 20,000 are now at work. Many more have wished to work but have been prevented by a course of violence and intimidation towards those working and towards their families accompanied by the destruction of properties and the fear of death or bodily harm to every man who wishes to exercise his right to work.

The coal companies realize that the urgent public need of coal and the apprehension of an inadequate supply for the approaching winter calls for an earnest effort to reach a practical conclusion which will result in an increased supply, and the presidents of the companies desire to make every effort to that end which does not involve the abandonment of the interests committed to their care and of the men who are working and seeking to work in their mines. This responsibility they must bear and meet as best they can.

They, therefore, restate their position:

That they are not discriminating against the United Mine Workers, but they insist that the miners' union shall not discriminate against or refuse to work with non-union men; that there shall be no restriction or deterioration in quantity or quality of work, and that owing to the varying physical conditions of the anthracite mines, each colliery is a problem bp itself.

We suggest a commission to be appointed by the President of the United States (if he is willing to perform that public service), to whom shall be submitted all questions at issue between the respective companies and their own employes, whether they belong to a union or not, and the decision of this committee shall be accepted by us.

The committee should be constituted as follows:

1. An officer in the engineering corps of either the military or naval service of the United States.

2. An expert mining engineer, experienced in the mining of coal and other minerals, and not in any way connected with coal mining properties, either anthracite or bituminous.

3. One of the judges of the United States courts of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

4. A man of prominence, eminent as sociologist.

5. A man who by active participation in mining and selling coal is familiar with the physical and commercial features of the business.

It being the understanding that immediately upon the constitution of such commission, in order that idleness and nonproduction may cease instantly, the miners will return to work and cease all interference with and persecution of nonunion men who are working or shall hereafter work. The findings of this commission shall fix the date when the same shall be effective and shall govern the conditions of employment between the respective companies and their employes for a term of at least three years.

Girl's Carousal Ends in Death.

At Punxsutawney Saturday evening 15 year old Agnes Tompkins and a Mrs. Merlotte Hogentogler, domestics employed in a restaurant, were drinking and carousing with L. M. Miller, a traveling salesman, and Al. Weber, a lumber merchant of Dayton, Pa. While in one of the saloons the Tompkins girl, who had been drinking freely, was seized with convulsions. She was removed to a room and a physician summoned. She died Sunday morning. The Hogentogler woman also became ill, but she will recover.

Miller, who had paid special attention to the girl was arrested. The coroner is making an investigation. The dead girl belonged to DuBois and the married woman formerly lived at Pittsburg.

Elkin and Eyre Near Death.

While on the way to the Assembly building at West Chester Friday night, where a Pennypacker meeting was held, Attorney General Elkin and Larry Eyre had a narrow escape from being killed or seriously injured. Scared by a band in the parade the horses attached to the carriage in which they were seated ran away.

The animals dashed into a tree, but luckily, fell down, when the crowd pounced upon them and held them until the Attorney General and Mr. Eyre could be rescued. The carriage was smashed and the horses injured, but the occupants while severely shaken up were uninjured.

—A writer in a scientific paper suggests that ordinary people may forcast the weather with some degree of certainty by means of a cup of coffee. He directs that one or two lumps of sugar be dropped carefully into the coffee, and if the air bubbles that rise rush suddenly from the centre to the side of the cup rain may be looked for during the day. If the bubbles gather in the centre, and then pass to the side slowly, there will probably be light showers. But if the bubbles rise to the centre and stay there the day will be fine. He does not give the philosophy of the thing, but it is, of course, due to the relative weight, and, therefore moisture of the atmosphere.

—An official order has been issued to the effect that Charles T. Wilson, who for many years has been stationmaster at Altoona station, has been placed on the retired list. His successor is S. H. Brenneman, who for almost a year past has been filling the duties of the position. Mr. Wilson was a former resident of Bellefonte and assumed the duties of stationmaster at Altoona on Christmas, 1863. On November 1, 1901, he ceased active duty, the company recognizing his many years of service relieving him then of the various details of the position, but continuing him on at full pay.

STRIKE SITUATION!

Perfect Quiet Reigned All Day Sunday.

TALK OF CALLING FOR REGULARS

Death of Colonel Theodore Hoffman. Fatal Wreck on the Pennsylvania Railroad Twenty-four Miles East of Altoona.

LIST OF THE KILLED AND INJURED

SCRANTON, Oct. 13.—This is the beginning of a week which it is generally believed will put to a test the claim of the operators that they will be enabled to start up their collieries if given protection and the counter claim of the United Mine Workers' organization, as expressed in Wednesday's resolutions, that the strikers will not return to work without concessions, even though the entire military force of the United States was here to protect them.

With a determination to prove their claim the operators have been for the past week making a supreme effort to secure men. They assert with much positiveness that various collieries will resume operations in the course of a few days. The Delaware and Hudson company will make an effort to start today at the Bellevue. The Green Ridge Coal company will attempt to open up its Green Ridge colliery probably today or tomorrow. Other companies say they are figuring on a resumption at certain collieries, but decline to give their location. Claim is also made on the operators' side that the forces at collieries already working are to be largely increased during the week.

The United Mine Workers' leaders continue to assert that the military can do nothing towards inducing men to return to work and that all the men who could be induced to go back to work without concessions are already back.

Strike disorder is now almost wholly wanting. During the past two days the soldiers have had nothing to do further than their regular patrol duty, not a single call having come to any of the three regiments in this county to deal with disorder or threatened disorder.

The talk of calling on the Federal government for troops to assist the State militia is still heard From conversations with superintendents and military officers the calling on the national authorities is a remote possibility. National Guard officers do not take kindly to the suggestion and say that the State Guard should be tried first before thinking about national soldiers.

Brigadier General Gobin does not take much stock in the proposition. If it were found that the Pennsylvania Guard was not sufficient in numbers to control the situation, he says he would favor recruiting the State force up to twice its size or to the number required to meet the situation, just as was done during the Spanish-American war. He says the governor, under the laws, can do it and if the governor came to him for his advice that is what he would suggest.

The death in a Scranton hospital Saturday night of Colonel Theodore F. Hoffman, of the Eighth regiment, which is camped at Duryea, twelve miles north of here, cast a gloom over that command. Memorial services were held in camp Sunday afternoon by Chaplain Daniel Eberly. The late commander will be buried on Wednesday.

A fatal and disastrous wreck occurred on the Pennsylvania railroad a short distance east of Barree, twenty-four miles east of Altoona, early Sunday morning. It was caused by an east-bound freight train parting and the two sections coming together, causing fourteen cars to be wrecked and piled up over the four tracks. Just as the wreck occurred the first section of fast line, running on an adjoining track, crashed into the wreckage. The engine, baggage and postal cars and four day coaches were derailed and wrecked. Two men were killed, one fatally injured and a number of passengers slightly hurt. The wreckage took fire and the wrecked cars of the first passenger and four freight cars were burned.

The killed:

J. W. Smith, engineer of fast line, aged 42 years, of Harrisburg.

H. A. Traxler, brakeman on freight train, aged 22 years, of Altoona.

The injured:

W. C. Black, fireman of fast line, of Harrisburg; both arms broken, bruises of body and scalded. Fatally injured and taken to Harrisburg hospital.

John Dasher, baggageman on fast line, of Philadelphia; bruises of body.

A dozen passengers and the mail clerks were slightly injured by the force of the collision by being thrown from their seats. The worst of these was a woman, who had an ankle sprained in getting out a window.

SHORT AND PITHY.

Vote for Pennypacker and prosperity.

Vote for Pattison and the empty dinner pail.

Every effort to bring about a termination of the great coal strike has been made by Republicans.

Dr. Huff of Milesburg, our next Coroner, is not worrying much over the election, for he is confident of winning by a handsome majority.

What about Strohm and Milesburg? Wait and see. Every Republican in that place will vote for him, but how about Kepler and Pleasant Gap?

J. N. Schoonover will be elected to the Legislature because the voters recognize in him, one who is competent in every way to represent us acceptably and ably in that body.

Prosperity has struck Nebraska, and the great 16 to 1 apostle is reaping some of its benefits, for we learn that Col. Bryan has ordered two mantles for his home which cost $2500 a piece.

The "Democrat" would have us believe that P. B. Meyer and Philip alone, paid the county debt last year. Great financier is Philip. Would that they had him in the Bellefonte Council.

Phil Foster, our candidate for treasurer must be a pretty fair sort of a man, for at his home, State College, he was elected burgess unanimously, the Democrats honoring him to the extent of not nominating a candidate to oppose him.

In 1902 the Democratic party gained power by appealing to the people against high prices. The people soon had a full appreciation of the results. In 1896 the party appealed against low prices, now if high prices are a calamity and low prices are a calamity, what will the Democrats offer that is not a calamity?

George Meek says that because Mr. Carlin is of mature years he can be trusted with the county strong box. As far as trusting him with the "strong box" is concerned, will inform Bro. Meek that Mr. Carlin will be much more mature before the people will call upon him to assume that great responsibility.

Miller and Bailey are canvassing the county and report everything all right. Miller has proven himself to be a commissioner with good judgment and economical ideas, and Mr. Bailey is a thorough business man. With these men in the Commissioner's office, we are certain of almost as wise and judicious administration of its affairs as during Mr. Meyer's term.

Charley Kurtz will not allow the Democrats to forget that James B. Strohm is a candidate for the Legislature, but devotes a large amount of space every week to inform them of the fact, and to remind them that like Robert "Everytime" Pattison their candidate for Governor, Mr. Strohm has been a candidate for office four times. Charley you croak away the people will attend to Mr. Strohm.

Robert "Everytime" Pattison is a cheerful speaker. He opens his speeches with "We denounce" "We deplore" and ends them with "We condemn," and "We protest." Not a word of encouragement is heard from his lips. He fails to see the content and happiness of the people. He is a pessimist of the worst pessimistic type. Vote for Robert "Everytime" Pattison and you will have just what he gave us in his other administrations: depression, discontent and despair.

Hon. A. K. McClure speaking of the Democratic candidates says: "I cannot vote for candidates whose party hope of success is in the disasters to our Army in the field, in convulsed business and trade, and in silent temples of industry, with breadless homes for American workmen." Working men, before casting your ballot at the next election, ponder over the utterances of Mr. McClure, who has been all his life devoting his time and talent to advancing the cause of democracy.

There are forty lawyers in Centre county, and they already fill two of the county offices. The other dozen offices have heretofore been divided among the nine thousand common people. The attorneys are not satisfied, and are making an effort to usurp another office, that of sheriff. Next year they will want the prothonotary and in a few years these kid gloved aristocrats will hold every office in the county, unless it be constable or school director, neither of which are very lucrative. Citizens of Centre county will you submit? Now is the time to assert your rights, and rebuke the effrontery of these professional chaps, and it can be done by voting for Henry Lowry, the carpenter candidate for sheriff.

The citizens of Unionville and vicinity are to be congratulated in having him locate in their midst and we wish him unbounded success and prosperity in his new field.

BISHOP GARVEY IN BELLEFONTE

Confirmed a Large Class and Blessed a Cross.

Rt. Rev. Eugene A. Garvey, of Altoona, Bishop of this diocese, paid his first visit as a Bishop to St. John's Catholic church Sunday and as a result the services were of more than usual importance and interest.

In the morning at 10:30 the church was crowded to the doors. The high mass was read by Rev. P. McArdle, pastor of the church. The singing for the occasion was especially beautiful and inspiring. The solo parts were taken by Mr. Saunders, of State College, Michael Hazel and Mrs. Arthur Brown.

The Bishop preached and eloquent and scholarly sermon, reading his scripture lesson from the Gospel according to St. Matthew, the 18th chapter and the 23rd to the 35th verses inclusive. He impressed upon his hearers the importance of right living, morality and virtue and the benefits of a christian home training. He urged upon all to be faithful to their church and spoke of the importance of the Catholic school system from a Catholic standpoint.

After the sermon and the High mass the confirmation services were held. The sponsers were Michael Hazel, Thaddeus Hamilton, Mrs. Joseph Ceader and Mrs. Michael Hazel. There were ninety-three in the class which the Bishop confirmed, one of the largest in the history of the church.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock interesting and impressive services were held in the Catholic cemetery when Bishop Garvey blessed the beautiful cross which Matthias Thal and his wife, Catherine donated to the church. After blessing the cross the Bishop made a short address showing what the cross symbolized and its importance to the true Catholic.

St. John's parish within the last few years has had a growth of numbers which is almost phenomenal, and has probably more members than any other denomination in our community.

The pastor, Rev. P. McArdle, has been indefatigable in his efforts to advance its interests. Since he has been in Bellefonte, a large and handsome stone church has been erected, a beautiful and costly parsonage has been built, and a parochial school has been established with a corps of efficient Sisters in charge, and a large number of scholars in attendance. By his zeal and unostentatious manner Rev. McArdle commands the respect of every one in this community, without regard to their church affiliations.

A Letter From Camp.

The following letter from Roger T. Bayard of Co. B. 5th Regt. N. G. P. was written to his parents has been handed us with permission to publish, which we gladly do, as so many of our readers are interested in every thing connected with our home Co.

ASHLAND, Schuykill Co. Oct 9th '02

We have lauded among what all the papers say is our enemies but so far we fail to see one miner who has not a kind and welcome word and greeting for us.

We reached Ashland this morning about eight o'clock and now everything is astir and excitement getting camp in order.

The town of Ashland has an inhabitants of eight thousand people, over four thousand miners. Poor fellows, we certainly do pity them for they and their families look as though they were nearly starved. The little children came into camp early this morning, and asked for food, and you should have seen the boys emptying their kits and knappsacks and giving them all they had left from their rations which they had brought from home, and a great many of the boys gave them money.

As I said before, the town has eight thousand inhabitants, and what do you think they have 63 licensed saloons in the town. We do not expect any trouble at all, for the people are not of that kind. We lie in a beautiful valley between what is called the Logan and Tunnel mountains and right in the mouths of the Potts and Freshmans colliers which are of course lying idle. The camp is entirely surrounded by miners and their wives and children. I have given you as near as I can a discription of our situation. Now in regard to the clerkship at Headquarters, Captain Stackpole of Col. Elders Staff told me this morning that I would be detailed again as soon as camp is opened. I will close now, as I must get to work. All the boys enjoyed the trip immensely and all are well, especially the "Irish Mess." With love to all.

BERT BAYARD.

—James Beatty of Sington, Clearfield county, is missing and it is feared he has been killed by the cave in of a mine near Philipsburg. Mr. Beatty on Thursday called on the owner of the mine with the view of operating. Since that time the mine has caved in, and it is thought he may have been in it at the time and has perished by fire damp.

Death of Mrs. Robert Corl.

At Linden Hall, on Saturday afternoon at five o'clock and forty minutes, the spirit of Mrs. Margaret Williams Corl left its tenement of clay to "join the innumerable host that move to the bosom of the earth." She was the daughter of William and Sarah Williams, was born at Lemont, Centre county, April 21, 1830, making her age at time of death 72 years 5 months and 20 days. She was ill for six months and gradually grew weaker until the end came.

She leaves to mourn, her husband and six children viz: Mary and Annie at home; William, Robert and James at Pleasant Gap; Charles, at Boalsburg; and one brother James Williams of Bellefonte. She was married to Robert Corl of Lemont in 1853. She was a sincere christian woman, a faithful member of the Presbyterian church in which she was an active and prominent member, a kind and obliging neighbor loved and respected by all who were acquainted with her, she will be sincerely mourned by a large circle of friends.

The funeral took place from her late home on Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock and was conducted by Rev. D. E. Hepler of Lemont assisted by Rev. Stonecypher, of Boalsburg. Interment in the Branch cemetery.

A Pretty Wedding.

With the splendors of a perfect October day smiling approval, the marriage of Miss Nannie Bailey and Charles Mothersbaugh was celebrated at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bailey of Boalsburg Tuesday.

Just at noon the ceremony was performed by Rev. D. E. Hepler of the Presbyterian church in the presence of a large number of guests. After congratulations an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. The bride and groom departed on the afternoon train for Pittsburg where they will spend their honeymoon visiting friends and seeing the sights in the smoky city. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bailey of Boalsburg, an amiable and accomplished young lady with a host of friends in the home of her birth, loved and respected by all with whom she is brought in contact.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Mothersbaugh and one of Centre county's most prized and thorough school teachers.

This paper joins with their host of friends in wishing them a long, prosperous and happy life with lots of little Mothersbaugh's to cheer their old age and soften their pathway to the tomb.

Death of Samuel Schmidt.

Samuel Schmidt died at his home in Sandusky, Ohio, Sunday morning, of blood poisoning, aged 61 years. He was formerly from Bellefonte. He is survived by three brothers and two sisters, viz: Henry, of Philadelphia; Coleman, Houtzdale; Solomon, Misses Bertha and Rosa of Philipsburg. He also leaves a family of three children, all married, his wife having died last February.

UNCLAIMED LETTER LIST.

The following letters remain in the Bellefonte Post Office uncalled for Oct. 13, 1902:

Carrie Corman, John Eddings, Mrs. F. Koch, Sallie Martin, Kate Nearheart, T. D. Ray, Dr. John K. Stites, Miss S. Thomas.

When called for please say advertised.

Opening of the Hunting Season.

Wednesday being the first day of the hunting season, there was a great exodus of nimrods, to the various hunting grounds in this section of the county. They were all armed to the teeth with every conceivable kind of weapons, from the gatling gun, to the harmless cap pistol, and the ammunition carried was of great variety, from solid shot down to liquid fire. Many carried it in a belt around their waists, whilst quite a number used their hip pockets for the purpose. Dealers in sportsmen's supplies and hotel bars being in competition, as to which would furnish the largest quantity.

Of course there will be some marvelous stories of adventures and results to be published next week, but as is usually the case, the adventures will greatly exceed results.

There is one party, however, out Wednesday, who we are confident will bring something with them to verify any statements they may make. We refer to Drs. Philip Fisher of Zion and "Boz". Parrish of our town. In order to be on the ground at an early hour, they started Tuesday night at eight o'clock for the scene of action, and were provided with every imaginable style of supplies, but with the exception of a game bag and leggins one would imagine they were going to start a drug store instead of hunting game.

"Boz". looked like a "dead game" sport, with his leggins worn with the hind side before, a spatula stuck in his belt, red hunting shirt, and a satchel in each hand. Dr. Fisher carried nothing but a "throw net" and a small bottle of tooth ache drops, but told us that the rest of the outfit was in his buggy.

We will give an account of their expedition next week, when we will publish a list of hunters, with the amount of game secured.

A Handsome Souvenir.

We were shown Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Valentine, a beautiful and elaborate souvenir, it being an invitation from the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce to be present at the 25th annual ball, in honor of the "Veiled Prophet" and his Court, which event took place in that city last week. Mr. and Mrs. Valentine receive invitations to this celebration every year, and they are always of a unique and expensive design, this year, however, excels any that have previously been issued, and is very costly. It consists of a beautiful brass clock surmounted by a dragon and the date of the ball being on the vase. The invitation proper is on a card with an engraving of the Prophet and other emblems. Their names are engraved on other cards of singular design, and there is still another circular card about a foot in diameter, which is cleverly arranged to illustrate different scenes and incidents connected with the Louisana purchase. All together it is something out of the ordinary, and if opportunity offers, we advise our readers to see it.

Rev. R. Crittenden handed us an apple Monday which exceeded in size almost any thing in that line we ever saw it being fully a foot in circumference. It looks toothsome, but as yet have not had the moral courage to cut into it. It was grown in Lycoming county, where he was visiting a flourishing Union Sunday School.

Mr. Bernard Vaughan who has been superintendent of the Upper Match Factory has resigned his position, and with his wife and child left Monday for Olean N. Y. for a visit. We do not know where he will engage in business but being a practical manufacturer there is no doubt he will secure a firm position. We regret his departure from our town as he was one of our best citizens.

Mr. W. W. Montgomery is entertaining at his residence, on Allegheny street, his cousin Mr. John Montgomery of Lake City, Minn. Mr. Montgomery was a former resident of Lewistown, but left that place for the west in 1857, being then but twelve years of age. This is the first visit he has made east since that time, and is surprised at the marvelous growth of population and industries in his native town. Like his cousin, with whom he is visiting, he has a penchant for serving Uncle Sam, and during Mr. Cleveland's second administration was post master of his adopted city. At present and for many years past, he has been engaged extensively in the grocery business, and is one of the substantial citizens of Lake City. He brought with him and presented to Mr. W. W. Montgomery the old family bible, over one hundred years old with records running back to the time when their ancestors lived in Ballynahinch, County Down, Ireland.

FULL PROCEEDINGS OF D. A. R. CONFERENCE

THE DAUGHTERS AT STATE COLLEGE

They Received a Hearty Reception—Were Entertained at Luncheon.

FAIR WEATHER PREVAILED

Address of Welcome by Mrs. Deborah Mitchell Regent of Bellefonte Chapter.—Response by State Regent Miss Susan Carpenter Frazer.

EIGHTYTHREE DELEGATES PRESENT

The annual conference of the Pennsylvania Chapters of D. A. R. met in Petrikin Hall on Wednesday afternoon, and at twenty-five minutes past two o'clock Miss Susan Carpenter Frazer, State Regent, called the body to order and proceeded to the transaction of business, and presided with the greatest grace and dignity. After "My Country tis of Thee" had been sung by all the members Mrs. William Heitshu read a portion of the fifth chapter of Matthew and then offered a beautiful and impressive prayer, closing with the Lord's prayer, in which every one present joined.

Mrs. Burnet sang two solos which were received with applause. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. R. G. H. Hayes. Then followed the address of welcome by Mrs. Deborah Downing Mitchell, regent of Bellefonte Chapter. Mrs. Mitchell spoke as follows:

Madam President-General, Madam State-Regent, Members of the Pennsylvania Conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution:

On behalf of the Bellefonte Chapter, I give you a heartfelt welcome to our beautiful little town, and to the central county of our state. It is especially fitting that I have the privilege to welcome the most representative body of Pennsylvania women to this building, Petrikin Hall, the existence of which was made possible by the liberality of a woman to her sex, a woman whose ancestors and kinsmen took part in every national struggle of our history.

The aboriginal tribes of this neighborhood, known to have held their campfires in our southern valleys as early as 1740, were driven away by the Six Nations, who included at least a portion of Centre County in the Penn Purchase of 1754. The wise Logan and the crafty and treacherous Bald Eagle, held undisputed sway over the rivers, paths and hills of the Alleghanies for half a century prior to the Revolution.

Logan, whom Philadelphia has remembered in the name of one of her five principal squares, has left his impress here on the name of the beautiful stream which empties into Spring Creek from the South and on that of a lovely mountain pass a few miles to the east. The names of many ridges, streams and camping grounds still remind us of Bald Eagle and relics of his adventurous bands are even yet discovered as the lands surrounding us are brought under fresh cultivation.

1755 is the year in which the first white settlers made their early clearings; while only four years later Captain James Potter of the Provincial army passed through the greater part of this county and made his camp at what is since known as Potter's Fort. He, with Colonel Hunter and others, took up the first land in the Manor tracts of Succoth and Nottingham a century prior to the Civil War. The fertile plains south of Nittany Mountains, even now the most valuable farm lands in Central Pennsylvania, attracted the first permanent residents and by the year of Independence nearly one hundred families had made their homes in Penns Valley, while smaller settlements existed in Nittany and Bald Eagle Valleys. The rich soil, magnificent timber and newly discovered iron ore were sufficient to bring settlers of personal worth and almost national importance from the beginning.

One of the earliest pioneers (the Captain Potter of whom I have spoken) was selected as Colonel of the first militia regiment raised in 1775 and commissioned a brigadier-general in the following year. Many other important military commissions were bestowed on the inhabitants of this region and the list of officers who gallantly served our Country in its struggle for independence, whose homes were carved from our virgin forests, will always be our pride and our delight. In 1778 occurred what is locally spoken of as the "Great Runaway," an almost complete exodus of the settlers to escape massacre by the Indians; Potter's Fort, to which our Chapter has erected a marker, being the sole stronghold held against the savages in Penns Valley.

It is needless for me to relate in detail the part taken in the Revolution by many of the founders of our County; the archives of Pennsylvania are full of their names and their actions. History has given them their need of praise, I cannot do them greater justice.

After the war, Generals Potter, Benner and Pattos, with Colonel Hunter and Colonel Samuel Miles (at one time the Mayor of Philadelphia) were the first to encourage our infant industries and the developement of the manufacture of charcoal iron hastened the clearing and settling of this region. Bellefonte was incorporated into a Borough in 1795 and many villages and towns sprang up in the neighborhood of the iron furnaces. The population grew so rapidly that in 1800 Centre County was erected embracing within its territory over four thousand person.

We have always been proud of our County's record, perhaps too boastfully so, but the number of Centre County's distinguished men, who have added to the brilliancy of her past, who have filled the gubernatorial chair of Pennsylvania as well as those of other Commonwealths, the important position to which they have been called by both state and nation, gives me a larger claim to greet with extended arms the descendants of their peers whose presence here indicates their love and respect for those who ventured all for the strip of country bounded on the east by the stormy Atlantic and on the west by the then unbroken fastnesses of the Alleghanies.

This was responded to by the Grand Regent Miss Frazer who said

Madam Regent, D. A. R. of the Bellefonte Chapter and of Pennsylvania:

On behalf of the loyal Daughters of Pennsylvania, whom I have the honor to represent, I thank you, Madam Regent, for the gracious words which you have spoken for yourself and Chapter in bidding us welcome to th's beautiful town in the mountains. For generations it has been noted for the prominence and learning of the men and culture of the women. They have always extended a kindly welcome and generous hospitality to the stranger within its gates.

This town has the proud distinction of having given three Governors to our State. One, by his patriotism, great executive ability, indefatigable labors won for himself the name "The Famous War Governor" of our State. He made the name Curtin historic, not only in his native State, but throughout this country and foreign lands. In your keeping are his ashes!

I assure you the Daughters of our State accepted with unfeigned pleasure the invitation of the Bellefonte Chapter to be your guests at this time at the State Conference. Here we hope to discuss the special needs of our work, to unite our energies in building up a strong organization, to pledge to it and each other anew our staunch and affectionate support, to promote a kindly spirit of good-fellowship among our members, to counsel one with the other what more can be done to make this society the power in this land for great good and noble achievements, to help place it on such a foundation that for generations to come its influence will be for good, for patriotism, love of country, pride in the achievements of the noble men and women who made this land a possibility for themselves and a surety for their descendants. They built wisely and well! The building was cemented with love of justice, love of liberty, sufferings, tears and blood.

We have come from the East, West, North, South and centre of the State we are proud to call our own. We can here meet and know each other better. The memory of the sufferings of the men and women of the Revolution should bind us, their children's children, together in such love and sympathy that each year would weld the chain stronger that only death itself could break it. The Daughters of the American Revolution have a great work to do. It cannot be done until self be obliterated, love of ambition dwarfed, political scheming effaced. Only then can this society rise in its majesty for the work before it.

There are many women eligible who should be gathered into its fold, to use their influence for patriotism. Every human being, no matter how lowly the station, has influence. A pebble thrown into the water produces circle after circle, on and on, rippling evermore. We should not allow one woman to remain out of this organization whom we can influence to enter. This country grows larger and greater each year, so the need of this society grows apace with our country's progress. There are heroes and heroines of the Revolution whose histories are still unknown, their deeds should be rescued from oblivion and commemorated.

There are battle-fields unmarked, the soil of which was drenched with the blood of men who fought for liberty and their firesides. There were women whose deeds were greater than the heroes of that day, for they gave their lives and homes willingly for freedom. Ah! they gave more than their lives, they gave the men of their homes! They suffered and waited! In that wilderness with the ocean between them and their Fatherland, it was a terrible price they paid where they sacrificed their protectors on the altar of their country. To reverence, to glorify such men and women, is the reason we, their descendants, are banded together in the organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

This people of our land did not have its birth by the evolution of forces. In every hut of the first settlers of our country was a Bible. It is the identity of patriotism with religion that has been our inheritance.

The very first note of liberty came from the Scotch-Irish Presbyterians of Mecklenberg. The men of the Revolution mixed their powder with their principles. They worshipped God in their log churches with the rifles and bayonets in their hands, ready to spring to the defense of this land which they called home. Here they could worship God according to the dictates of their own conscience.

Is that not worth teaching the youth of this land? The children of today will be the men and women when we shall be gathered to our fathers.

One of the grandest and greatest duties of this society is to inculcate in the children's hearts love of country, love of our flag, the duty of being good citizens, God-fearing men and women, and reverence for those who made this land.

Teaching them this government is beyond price, the greatest and grandest on the face of the earth; into their hands it will be committed for safe keeping, for them to hand unspotted and unsullied to their successors.

Another duty is to mark the last resting place of the heroes of the Revolution. It should be our pride to show the world that we, the D. A. R., reverence that handful of dust, and feel, by virtue of descent, that it is our care. Patriotism and valor were the prominent traits of these men, their honorable services rendered to this country should not only remain in our hearts, but in some way should mark the spot where they lie.

Another care of our society is the real Daughter, who brings us very near to "times that tried men's souls." They are the direct descendants of courageous blood, and the connexion with the period and men it is our glory to honor. Daniel Webster said to the venerable men who were the survivors of the battle of Bunker Hill half a century after the battle: "Heaven has bounteously lengthened out your lives to witness this auspicious day." We feel the lives of these real daughter have been bounteously lengthened out that we may do them honor. Many of them have been rescued from oblivion and ofttimes from penury.

Continental Hall is an object dear to the hearts of many Daughters. Pennsylvania has done and is doing its share to make it a monument for the men and women whom we honor. When each Daughter feels and knows that pile will commemorate her ancestors, there will rise in its glory to be a monument worthy the heirs of whom it will be a memorial, and worthy of their descendants who will build it.

We should not forget the strangers from over the seas, who came, with their ability and influence to help America, in her struggles against mighty England. They came from almost every great and small country under the sun. Rochambeau, DeGrasse, and other Frenchmen came under orders from Louis XVI. They brought armies and trains with them. But Lafayette, Stenten, DeKalb, Pulaski, and Kosirusko offered nothing except their lives to the cause. They should be remembered and their memorials be prominent features of our memorial Continental Hall, which would be a perpetual reminder of the debt which the American people owe to Liberty's Champions in all quarters of the world.

Since our last conference death has claimed our first Honorary State Regent, Mrs. Mary Hall Jordan. She was a woman of great intelligence, delightful personality, firmness of purpose, a christian woman. It was through the great energy of Mrs. Jordan that the Harrisburg Chapter was organized in 1894. Her last appearance at a Jubilee gathering, was with us at the State conference held in Harrisburg last October when her counsel helped to make it a success. For her words of encouragement which she gave me at Harrisburg, I hold her memory in gratefulappreciation. All last winter through her illness letters came to me giving aid and counsel. I am glad to have the opportunity here today, to add my tribute to her memory and tell of my gratitude for her kindness. Peace, peace to her soul.

I cannot close without thanking you, my Daughters of Pennsylvania, for your loving kindness and consideration for me. Every day since I have been your Regent has been frought with pleasure. I came to you in the shadow of a sorrow. The hand of friendship you gave me then is still warmly clasped in mine. You have overlooked my mistakes by casting on them the broad mantle of charity. To know you, will give me pleasure, that will be great while memory and life shall last.

For your help, loyalty and allegiance, which you have ever given me, I thank you and hope a golden cord, the ties of a lasting friendship may run through our lives, until we come to see the radiance of the New Day.

Let us, then, accept the counsel of the old Indian Chief Conestoga, pledge ourselves to union, the basis of our strength, to friendship, the maintenance of our power.

Both speeches were listened to with great interest and hearty applause was given them. The ladies spoke with ease and fluency which would compare favorably with any orators of the male persuasion we have ever heard.

The roll of chapters was then called by Miss Emma L. Crowell state secretary, who announced that there were eighty three members present, exclusive of Bellefonte chapter which was represented by about forty members.

The report of the "Julia K. Hogg" Testimonial Committee was read by Mrs. James R. Mellon, and included the following statement of the object of this testimonial.

The Julia K. Hogg Testimonial Prize of Fifty ($50) Dollars is offered by the Pennsylvania Daughters of the American Revolution for the best essay forwarded to the State Committee upon the subject: "The History of what is now the State of Pennsylvania, prior to the Penn Charter." The competitors for the prize will be the Senior Class in each of the following Colleges for Women.

Pennsylvania College for Women, Pittsburg.

Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr.

Allentown College for Women, Allentown.

Moravian Seminary and College, Bethlehem.

Metzger College, Carlisle.

Irving College, Mechanicsburg.

Wilson College, Chambersburg.

The object in offering the prize is to awaken an interest in Pennsylvania history among young women; to stimulate a desire for historical research; and to promote patriotism.

The essays must not exceed three thousand (3,000) words; must be typewritten; signed under an assumed name and given to the President of the College of which the writer is a member. A small sealed envelope must be attached to the essay, addressed with the assumed name of the writer, containing her true name, age, address and College.

When the President has made a choice of three out of the essays submitted to him under assumed names, he will kindly forward them, with the "sealed envelope" enclosed, not later than December 1st, 1902, to the Chairman of the State Committee. Large envelopes will be addressed and furnished.

The name of the successful competitor will be announced in the State Regent's Report at the Continental Congress, Washington, D. C., February 22d, 1903. Honorable mention will be made of such other essays as are worthy.

CONDITIONS.

The Committee will consider: First, correctness in historic statements; second, purity of diction.

The Committee very earnestly solicits the co-operation of every President of the Colleges named, and asks that they urge as many members of the Senior Class as possible to compete for the prize. The essays will not be returned.

The Julia K. Hogg Testimonial Committee appointed by the State Regent, Miss Frazer:

Rachel H. L. Mellon, Chairman, 400 N. Negley Ave., Pittsburg.

Minnie F. Mickley, Secretary, Mickleys.

Mrs. Sarah J. Cummings, Tidioute.

Mrs. Anna E. Boyd, Danville.

Miss Martha Mifflin, Columbia.

She was followed by Mrs. Samuel A. Ammen, treasurer of the testimonial, who reported $1040.83 in her hands including investments which she holds.

The state treasurer, Mrs. Stanford, reported as follows:

Balance on hand, October 1901,	$ 542.15
Received since then,	1077.80
	$1619.95
Expenses,	1143.46
Leaving a balance on hand,	$ 476.49

We do not exactly understand how the Daughters run their finances, but they evidently spent more money last year than they received, as the balance on hand at this date is $65.66 less than it was at the last annual meeting. Of course, it is none of our business but it is such an unusual thing for ladies to live beyond their means that we do not just see how this state of affairs came about. Now it is different with the Sons of the Revolution, their balance on hand grows larger every year, probably because they are more economical, and not so extravagant in their tastes etc.

When the treasurer had completed her report Mrs. Ammen of Pittsburg appeared upon the stage and in one of the most graceful little speeches, extended an invitation to the conference to hold its next session at Pittsburg. There was no opportunity given other locations to extend their hospitality because the moment Mrs. Ammen sat down there were half a dozen arose to their feet offering motions to accept the invitation, which was done quickly and unanimously.

Perhaps we were wrong in our surmises, but it struck us that every other place was willing that Pittsburg should carry off the honors. We can only say for Bellefonte, that they would be welcome here next year, or any year they might wish to come, for our little town always stands ready to welcome its friends, especially the kind of friends who comprise this Patriotic Society.

A telegram was read from Tioga Chapter, which expressed regret at not being able to be represented, but sent its greetings. An invitation was then read from Dr. G. W. Atherton of the State College inviting the ladies to visit that institution on Friday. This was accompanied by a letter from Prof. G. G. Pond, Chief Chemist at the College, seconding Dr. Atherton's invitation. There was also read a letter from Col. Wilbur F. Reeder in behalf of the Sons of the Revolution, stating that they had arranged for a train of cars to convey the conference to the College and return, and inviting the ladies to be their guests. All these invitations were accepted, with thanks.

There being no further business the regent declared the conference adjourned until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

One feature of the meetings is the "pages" who make their services invaluable by gracious and pleasant attention to those who attend the meetings. They are Misses Grace Mitchell, Marguerite Potter, May Crider, Mabel Allison, Jean Furst, Ann Orvis, and Mrs. Geo. B. Thompson.

The second day's session of the D. A. R. Conference which is being held in Petrikin Hall was called to order at 10:20 Thursday morning by the State Regent, Miss Susan Carpenter Frazer, and was opened by the Lord's prayer, conducted by the Chaplain, Mrs. Heitshu, after which everyone rose to their feet and joined in singing the Star Spangled Banner. The regent then ordered a call of the roll, but owing to the suggestion of several present it was postponed until later in the session. Miss Frazer then announced that the Conference would hear three minute reports from each Chapter in the jurisdiction, and with few exceptions, they responded and gave an account of their progress during the year just closed. From the reports, we learn that the society is growing very rapidly in many locations, and there was not one Chapter which did not show a gain in membership. The contributions also for various purposes were large, being in excess of previous years.

Independence Hall Chapter has the proud distinction of giving more money for the purpose of building Continental Hall than any Chapter in the United States, having subscribed and paid for this object $1150.

Pittsburg Chapter made a very interesting report through its regent Mrs. Ammen. This lady gave an account of the successful efforts of their Chapter in preventing the destruction of Fort Pitt and the desecration of that sacred spot, by a syndicate that proposed using it for commercial purposes. In their patriotic efforts it was necessary to invoke the aid of the Courts, which sustained them in every point, this gave evidence that the ladies are determined to maintain the principles of their society at any cost.

Another report which was of special interest was that of Liberty Bell Chapter located at Allentown. The regent of this Chapter gave an account of the unveiling of a tablet placed on the Reformed church in that city in commemoration of an event of which many who are not readers of history have no knowledge. At one time during the Revolutionary War, the people of Philadelphia fearing that our liberty bell might be captured and destroyed by the British, sent it to Allentown for safe keeping and it remained there until such time as it could be safely returned. Her account of the services on this occasion were listened to with interest.

Quaker City Chapter during the last year presented a handsome silk flag to Gen. George G. Meade Post, G. A. R. and in addition to this they have charge of decorating or draping, as the case may be, the statue of Washington in their city.

Had we space, would like to give a synopsis of all the reports read for there was not one that was not full of interest, and breathed forth sentiments of patriotism, and if the youth of Pennsylvania have not the feeling of patriotism instilled within their breasts, it will be no fault of the D. A. R.

Almost every chapter in Pennsylvania is offering prizes each year to the scholars of our schools, for the best essays on patriotic and historical events, stimulating the boys and girls of this great commonwealth to make a study of the struggles of their forefathers in establishing liberty upon the Western continent.

In addition to this, from the reports, it was shown that every effort is being made to discover the last resting place and identity the graves of those who perished in that memorable and unparalled struggle, and wherever a grave of one of these heroes is found, a marker is placed upon it, and this conference will adopt a permanent mark that will be fixed upon the grave of every Revolutionary soldier that can be located.

The Regent of Conshohocken Chapter was in the midst of her report, when she was interrupted by the entrance of Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks President General of the United States. The conference received her with honors, by every one rising to their feet to greet their distinguished officer. Mrs. Fairbanks was accompanied by Mrs. Wilbur F. Reeder. Miss Frazer, descended from the platform and cordially greeted her superior officer and accompanied her to a position on the stage and presented her to the Conference. Her presence created great enthusiasm, which must have been flattering to that lady, and after seeing and hearing her speak we do not wonder that she carried away the honors at the session of the Continential Congress, and was elected to the position she now occupies. In appearance she is one of the most attractive ladies to be seen anywhere, in manner delightfully charming, and in speech eloquent and persuasive. Her short address drew every heart to her, and we verily believe that had she made the request for this Conference to assume the task of raising the $240,000, necessary to complete Continental Hall every member would have voted to comply with her desire.

In opening her address, she approached the front of the platform and with her hands extended towards the large audience and with the sweetest of smiles upon her lips, said: "It is a pleasure for me to be here" and her whole face reflected the sentiment of her heart. She then stated that she approved of the State Conference, that it was helpful, not only to the Daughters and the Conference but also to the National Congress, for in these meetings matters were brought up for discussion, and every Daughter had the privilege of expressing her views upon any question; thereby indicating how their representatives to Congress should vote in order to follow out their wishes. She also told them of the wide field of usefulness before the society, the work that was to be accomplished, and at the same time telling the work that has been done, and that everything has been, and will be in the interest of patriotism, and to keep fresh in the memory of a grateful people the brave and heroic deeds of their forefathers, who had dedicated themselves and their all, to the cause of freedom, to preserve the spirit of liberty, and to bequeath this heritage to coming generations. She further said that the object of their society was not to foster the idea of aristocracy, but to try and induce the rising generations to emulate the virtues of their splendid ancestors, and their noble deeds. Mrs. Fairbanks made a very interesting statement of the proposed Continental Hall to be built in Washington, which will be used for the meetings of Congress, and the offices of the National Organization. There will be a museum and a library also room for everything connected with the society. It is to cost $300,000 of which 60,000 is in the treasury already and the prospects are that it will be but a short time before work can be commenced, and when completed it will be dedicated to the Fathers and Mothers who in the early days of our Republic, made such grea sacrifices, the fruits of which those who are living today enjoy.

After her remarks were finished the question of adopting a permanent marker

JACK'S YARN

By H. L. DAWES

Copyright, 1901, by H. L. Dawes

About fifteen years ago my chum Bill an' me landed in New York with fifteen months' pay in our pockets. We had been more'n half way round the world in the ship Hooghly, an' sailorlike we proceeded to color the town with red lead from keel to truck.

The first day wuz Saturday, an' I guess our logbook showed that we did our full duty in the paintin' bizness. Sunday mornin' we spruced up in some bran' new togs an' laid our course uptown to see the rich folks, the pretty gals an' the dandies paradin' in their fine clothes.

At last we fetched up in front of a big church an' stood there a spell listenin' to the music that was playin' inside. I sez to Bill, "Let's go in an' see what it's like an' hear the music."

"I don't think," sez Bill, "that they want the likes of us in there. This 'ere appears to be sort of salvation shop, but I heerd the preacher at the Bethel say once that salvation wuz free. We might hail 'em an' p'r'aps they'll let us come aboard."

A gospel man met us at the gangway, shook our flippers as if we wuz old shipmates an' then piloted us to a seat on the main deck about amidships. Talk about cats in a strange garret! 'Twan't nothin' to us two "Johnny haul tauts" stowed away in a high toned New York church, with swell people all round rigged up in fine toggery.

Well, I cast my eyes about an' finally spied the music pilot about two p'ints on the starboard bow. He wuz actin' kinder oneasylike, as if he wan't dead sure how she was headin', but at last he got his bearin's an' let her went.

First, there wuz some birds a-twitterin' up aloft somewheres on the main skys'l yard, an' there they chased themselves up an' down the r'yal stay an' then they perched on the foret'gan'l crosstrees singin' like a bird store let loose. Then they wuz gone, an' Bill sez to me, "Suthin' skeered them birds away, Jack," an' I w'ispered back, "Maybe the cook shook the tablecloth overboard an' they're after the crumbs. They'll be back ag'in all right."

Then the music pilot kind of cast his eye aloft, give her a couple of spokes, an' we heard a light breeze a-comin' out of the sou'west gentle an' softlike. Sez I to Bill, "Light breeze an' passin' clouds," an' Bill sez, "Aye, aye, Jack." The pilot laid back an' took things easy, turned over his chart, jest takin' a squint at the compass now an' then.

"Plain sailin'," sez Bill, an' I sez, "Aye, he's got all the rags on her now, r'yals, skys'ls an' moon scrapers."

"An' stuns'ls," added Bill.

Then the music chap got frisky as if he wuz settin' on a hot galley stove, an' it begun to breeze up a leetle stronger. He pulled out some wind jammers on the port side, an' she gave a roll, an' he fetched up ag'in the lee rail. I knowed a smoky sou'wester wuz a-comin', for I heerd the thunder rollin' way off like it wuz nigh hull down to the w'ard. It kept breezin' more an' more, the thunder wuz gettin' louder an' louder, an' I could almost hear the ole man holler, "All hands aloft an' take in sail!"

She eased up a bit when the flyin' kite an' light sails wuz stowed away, an' the old gal wuz makin' good weather of it under lower tops'ls an' stays'ls. She wuz jest a-bilin' an' carried a bone in her teeth like a Cunarder.

You oughter heerd that music tune! Even if 'twas screechin' hard enuf to blow yer hair off we could foller that 'ere tune all the same, an' it didn't seem to make no dif'runce how she wuz weatherin' the squall or how much them birds screeched, that music pilot held that tune full—an'—by through it all.

He yanked out some more wind jammers on the lee side, an' the thunder rolled an' moaned as if all the furies wuz loose an' the devil chasin' 'em; the old packet wuz nigh on her beam ends, an' she rolled so I calkilated to see that chap pitch overboard. Bimeby she eased up a bit, an' Bill nudged me with his elbow an' says, "Jack, they've got her hove to under a goose wing main tops'l an' she's makin' good weather of it." That wuz my idea, but I wuz expectin' to see the whole outfit bust an' spill all hands.

The wust was over, for the music pilot cast his weather eye on the chart give her the lower tops'ls an' swung her on her course. He begun punchin' them wind jammers back ag'in as if he had no more use for 'em, an' it begun to moderate.

We could hear the thunder dyin' away in the no'theast, kinder mutterin' an' cuttin', as if it didn't want to leave. The birds come back, an' we could hear 'em peepin' ag'in up on the yardarms. Then it died out a flat calm, an' even the birds begun to quiet down till there wuz only one leetle cuss left a-twitterin' on the end of the jibboom. He give a tiny squeak an' wuz gone.

Then the music pilot stowed away his charts an' went below, an' that part of the show wuz over.

Bill an' me saw the gospel man when we wuz goin' out, an' I asked him what that tune wuz an' where it hailed from.

He said, "Boys, that's one of the grandest tunes a man ever listened to, an' if there's any soul in him at all that tune will find it. The name of it is 'The Lost Chord.'"

Sez Bill: "I know a hanged sight better. He fetched her through it an' never lost a rope yarn!"

We walked down the street a piece, sayin' nothin', but I wuz doin' a big thinkin'. That music had made a queer feelin' come over me, an' 'fore I knowed it I wuz thinkin' of home an' the old folks. I remembered what my mother said jest before I went off to sea—that she wuz goin' to pray for me every night, an' dad he laid his hand on my shoulder an' sez, "You've allers a home to come to, my boy, when you want to, an' I'll leave the shed window unlocked for you ev'ry night."

I wuz thinkin' of all those things, an' finally I sez to Bill, "I'm goin' home to see the folks!" Bill coughed queerlike an' sez, "So'm I." An' we went.

Well, boys, I ain't much on music, bein' only an old sailor, but this I say—if you ever lose your bearin's an' your steerin' gear gits all tangled up, jest git a good music pilot to play that 'ere tune on a big full rigged organ, an' if it don't git soundin's of your wayward soul it's 'cause you ain't got any!

His Offhand Manner.

"Dan," said a contractor to one of his trusted employees, "when you are seeing about that lime this morning, I wish you to mention to Dempsey that I would like to have that bill paid. You needn't press it, you know, but just mention it to him in an offhand manner."

"Yes, sorr."

"I got the money from Dempsey," said Dan on his return.

"I'm very glad. You merely alluded to it in an offhand way, I suppose?"

"Yes, sorr. I handed him the bill and told him if he didn't pay it I would let off my hand and give him a black eye that he wouldn't forget for a month, and he paid it at wanst."—London Answers.

Filial Sympathy.

"When I was your age," said Mr. Goldbags sternly, "I earned my own living."

His son looked uneasy, but was silent.

"Well, have you nothing to say for yourself in that connection?"

"N-nothing, sir, except that I sympathize with you, and congratulate you on the fact that it's all over."—London Tit-Bits.

The Penguin's Bump of Locality.

On shore the penguin is an awkward creature. Water is its element. When hunted on the ice floes, the birds generally try to run away in an upright position, but just as the hunter thinks he has got one the bird lies down on its white belly and paddles along over the snow very quickly, the hard, smooth quills slipping over the snow crystals almost without friction. A remarkable characteristic of the penguin is his bump of locality. Both on shore and in the water he never loses his way. To human eyes one ice floe is precisely like another, but under that roof of similar ice floes I have seen a penguin of the larger species find its mate on a floe after diving and swimming for a full mile under water.—Leslie's.

An Infallible Result.

Briggs—My wife has had a wonderful cure. She has recovered her voice after being unable to utter a word for nearly six months.

Griggs—You don't mean it! How did it come about?

Briggs—In the most unexpected way. We happened to call at a neighbor's where they were playing cards. We thought we might as well take a hand. What was the result? In less than five minutes my wife was asking in a strong, clear voice, "What's trumps?"—Boston Transcript.

Eternity.

An unconventional preacher undertook to give his hearers a vivid conception of eternity. This is the way he did it: "If a little sparrow were to dip its bill in the Atlantic ocean and take one drop of water and then take one hop a day across the country and put that drop in the Pacific ocean and then hop back to the Atlantic, one hop a day, until the Atlantic was dry as a bone, it wouldn't be sun-up in hades."

Hedgehogs.

Hedgehogs are very strong in the water, swimming with ease against a rapid stream, and with their muscular claws they turn up the nests of trout or salmon and make a goodly haul therefrom. They will breast a very rapid stream, and cold water, as near the freezing point as may be, seems to have no terror for them. The eggs of the salmonidæ are a welcome prey to nearly every animal that will face water. Aquatic birds, rats (both house and water), hedgehogs, beetles and their larvæ, the so called fresh water shrimp, are deadly foes.

There have been times when the wild beasts have been more merciful than human beings, and spared the woman cast to them in the arena. It is astonishing how little sympathy women have for women. In the home the mistress sees the maid with the signs of suffering she recognizes so well, but she does not lighten the sick girl's load by a touch of her finger. In the store the forewoman sees the pallor and exhaustion which mark womanly weakness, but allows nothing for them. It is work or quit.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, makes weak women strong and sick women well, by curing the womanly diseases which undermine the health and sap the strength. "Favorite Prescription" establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness.

"When I first commenced using Dr. Pierce's medicines," writes Mrs. George A. Strong, of Gansevoort, Saratoga Co., N. Y. "I was suffering from female weakness, a disagreeable drain, bearing-down pains, weak and tired feeling all the time. I dragged around in that way for two years, then I began taking your medicine. After taking the first bottle I began to feel better. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, two of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' one vial of the 'Pleasant Pellets,' also used one bottle of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Now I feel like a new person. I can't thank you enough for your kind advice and the good your medicine has done me."

"Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most desirable laxative for delicate women.

A GREAT BATTLE.

The One Known In History as the "Victory of Victories."

The battle which is known in history as the "Victory of Victories" took place at Nehavend, in Ecbatana, and was fought between the new Moslem power in 637 and the empire of Persia, then one of the most powerful of the eastern monarchies. It was one of the most absolutely decisive battles in the history of war, and it was all the more amazing by reason of the fact that it was won by a people which twenty years before had been unknown barbarians, lost in the deserts of Arabia.

Arabian historians place the Persian loss in a single day at 100,000 men killed. This may be and probably is an exaggeration, but the fact remains that the Persian dynasty came to an end when the battle was over and that Zoroastrianism, which had been the religion of Persia for over a thousand years, was at once supplanted by Islam. Its modern representatives, as is well known, are now the Parsees of India.

The victory was so absolutely decisive that it extended the Arabian dominions over the whole of the region lying between the Caspian sea and the Indian ocean. With the exception perhaps of the battle of Tours, no single fight ever made such a difference in the after history of the world.

Tough Buckskin.

Everybody knows that the early pioneers and plainsmen wore clothes of buckskin. They did it not only because cloth was hard to get, but because buckskin, although soft and comfortable, will stand great wear and tear. One may be pardoned, however, if he doubts the story of the strength of buckskin told by one of a group of old settlers, who were discussing the degeneracy of the present age.

"I was breaking sod in northern Texas," he said, "with four yoke of oxen. Something frightened them, and we started on a dead run straight for a large sycamore stump which was at least three feet in diameter.

"The plow struck it about in the center and split it wide open. I was still clinging to the handles of the plow, which went clean through the stump, dragging me after. The stump flew together again and caught me by the seat of my buckskin pants."

"What happened then?" asked one of the listeners.

"Well, sir, would you believe it? We pulled that stump out by the roots!"

Be Slow to Believe It.

There is no better test of purity and true goodness than reluctance to think evil of one's neighbor and absolute incapacity to believe an evil report about good men except upon the most trustworthy testimony. Alas, that this large and lovely charity is so rare! But it is only with those who possess this charity that men accused of sins against society have an equal chance with those accused, under the forms of law, of crime. Every man brought to trial for crime is presumed to be innocent until he is proved to be guilty, but with the world at large every man slandered is presumed to be guilty until he proves himself to be innocent, and even then it takes the liberty of doubting the testimony. Every man who rejoices in scandal thereby advertises the fact of his own unworthiness, and every man who is pained by it and refuses to be impressed by it unconsciously reveals his own purity.

An Early Organist.

A Sunday school teacher was impressing upon the little ones in her class the story of the lame beggar who was carried every day to the beautiful gate of the temple, and when the apostles Peter and John went up there they miraculously healed him. The teacher expressed sorrow for the poor man, who could do nothing but sit at the gate and beg. A little hand shot up from follow'in' me industrious inclinations. Every time dere's a strike declared I goes on a sympathetic strike to help along de cause. An' dere's a strike somewhere or another purty near all de time."—Washington Star.

A Quiet Place.

There are queer nooks and corners in England yet.

A country parson went to preach in an old remote parish one Sunday.

The aged sexton, in taking him to the place, insinuatingly said:

"I hope yer riv-rence won't mind preachin' from the chancel. Ye see, this is a quiet place, and I've got a duck sittin' on fourteen eggs in the pulpit."

A Story of Henry Clay Dean.

A good story is related of Henry Clay Dean, the famous orator of a generation or so ago. Mr. Dean was generally referred to as "Henry Clay Dean of Iowa" even long after he had established a home in Missouri. He explained his change of habitation in this way: "You see, they passed a nefarious prohibition law in Iowa, and there's your whisky gone. Then they abolished capital punishment, and there's your hanging gone, and now the whole population seems to be drifting toward Universalism, and there's your hades gone. I can't live in a state that has neither hades, hanging nor whisky."—Argonaut.

Bad Hand Made Him Money.

When Lord Curzon was at Oxford, he wrote an abominable hand. One day he penned two letters, one of them to a relative and one to a chum with whom he always discussed the faults of their respective relations, and accidentally put these letters into the wrong envelopes. He was about to write a profound apology to his relative when he received the following note from him: "Can't read a word of your four pages, but guess you want some money, you young rascal." Inclosed was a Bank of England note for a good amount.

Korean Washerwomen.

The hardest worked washerwomen in the world are the Koreans. They have to wash about a dozen dresses for their husbands, and they have plenty to do. The washing is usually done in cold water and often in running streams. The clothes are pounded with paddles until they shine like a shirt front fresh from a laundry.

"You have wounded me," he sadly said as he rose from his knees—"wounded me so deeply that I shall never"—

"Wait," she said, picking a book off the table. "Let me see what 'First Aid to the Injured' says to do in such a case as yours."

Grew Too Fast.

Little Tommy when told that he was growing fast answered:

"Yes; too fast. I think they water me too much. Why, I have to take a bath every morning!"—Exchange.

A Fault Finder.

"You were always a fault finder," growled the wife.

Got the Wrong Flag.

A retired naval officer took holy orders and became rector of a country church. His parishioners, wishing to give him a surprise, subscribed among themselves and bought a naval flag for the church tower. Directly the old gentleman saw it he flew into a violent rage and ordered it to be taken down at once. One of his parishioners asked him why he did not like it.

"Allow that flag to fly on my church tower? Never! It's an insult! Do you know what that particular flag signifies, sir? It means, 'In distress; want a pilot!'"—London Standard.

The Odor of Death.

A London physician of large practice asserts that owing to his extremely sensitive sense of smell he can foretell the coming of death forty-eight hours. He says that when a patient comes within two days of death a peculiar earthy smell is emitted from the body. When the fatal disease is slow in its progress, the odor makes its appearance as much as three days beforehand, but when the disease is of the galloping kind the doctor says he receives much shorter warning. He attributes the smell to mortification, which begins within the body before life is extinct.

Dogs are thought to have this sense, for hunting hounds have been observed to begin a mournful baying a day or two before their masters died.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

In Use For Over 30 Years.

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

All Sirloin.

Holman F. Day's "Pine Tree Ballads" tells in verse a number of stories that actually happened "down in Maine," and are remembered there today by old narrators. One relates to Barney McGauldrie, a landlord of that state, at whose house famous men liked to stay, that they might enjoy a merry joke.

Barney was always loyal to his friends. At one time a new meat dealer came to town and tried to secure the landlord's trade.

"I have always bought meat of Jed Haskell," said Barney, "and I guess I won't change."

"But," said the other, "old Haskell doesn't know his business. He doesn't even know how to cut meat."

"Well," drawled Barney, "I've always found that he knows enough about it to cut sirloin steak clear to the horn, and that's good enough for me."

Witty Members of Parliament.

Charles James Fox once made remarks on government gunpowder in the house of commons which Adams, another member, thought offensive to the ministry, and the two met, as even wise men did in those days, to shoot one another. Fox refused to fire, declaring he had no quarrel, but Adams aimed and shot, slightly wounding his adversary. When it was over, the two shook hands, and Fox was happy enough to say, "You'd have killed me, Adams, if it had not been government powder!"

Other men there have been who would not sit through a speech for the government's sake, much less fight a duel. "What's going?" somebody asked a member of parliament when a minister had got up to speak. The M. P., hurrying on, said, "I am." The story recalls one of Lord Erskine, who was stopped in the lobby with the question, "Who's up?" "Windham," said Erskine, and the other asked, "What's he on?" "His legs," replied the witty lawyer.

Not the Example He Expected.

The master of a Glasgow school was presiding over the reading lesson when the child, whose turn it was to read, came across the word "hireling."

"What is a 'hireling?'" asked the teacher.

The boy thought for a moment or two and then replied, "I don't know." The question was next propounded to the entire class, with a like result. The master then explained the meaning of the word as lucidly as he could and at the conclusion of his explanation repeated the question.

"Please, sir," replied the boy addressed, "you're a hireling; you're paid to teach us."—Scottish American.

White Snake Soup.

There is a legend to the effect that long ago a man named Ramsay of Banff, Scotland, having boiled down a white snake and accidentally swallowed a drop of the soup, against which he had been warned as poisonous, found himself endowed with the power of seeing through the people he met. This unusual opportunity for diagnosis established his reputation and fortune as a physician.

A Little Too Plain.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it.

In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

EDITORIAL.

THE IMPORTANCE OF A REPUBLICAN CONGRESS.

Whilst there is no question as to the election of Hon. S. R. Dresser for Congress we appeal to the Republicans to make his majority as large as possible, in order that we might proclaim with no uncertain sound our confidence in the policy of the national administration. It is important to have a Republican Congress in order to continue this era of prosperity.

The whole country looks to Pennsylvania for help in doing so and our state is more deeply interested in a continuance of Republican control than almost any state in the Union.

With our vast iron and steel industries, a tinkering with the tariff would work incalculable harm.

In Mr. Dresser, our candidate, we have a man who can be depended upon every time his vote is required to advance the material interests of Pennsylvania, or our Congressional District.

Let Centre County, by its vote, contribute largely to Mr. Dresser's majority.

VIRTUE HAS ITS OWN REWARD.

The Democratic papers of this Senatorial district are hammering away to convince people that Senator Heinle is an honest man, and made a faithful representative at Harrisburg. They are foolish in wearing away their gray matter, and wasting printers' ink in proclaiming this fact. None of the Republican papers have attempted to deny it. They all agree that Mr. Heinle was honest, and performed the duties of the office in a satisfactory way, but what of it? Wasn't he elected for that purpose? Could he have honorably done anything else? It is true several of his Democratic colleagues yielded to temptation and fell by the way. But why Mr. Heinle should be paraded before the public on account of his virtues, we cannot understand. Is it because an honest Democratic office holder is a rara avis? We should judge so.

If this was a Democratic district, we would expect Mr. Heinle to be returned to the Senate, but it is not, hence, it is the purpose of the voters to have a Republican succeed him. We have in our candidate, Hon. Alexander E. Patton, a man who is just as honest as Mr. Heinle, has the same high conception of honor is his equal in education, and would represent us just as faithfully as would his opponent. Then what reason is there for not supporting the Republican candidate.

Mr. Patton is known throughout this district as one of the most representative men within its limits, and no man nor newspaper dare even insinuate that he is not all that he should be, as a man or citizen.

The Democrats in this great, strong Republican State want the Republicans to elect a Democratic governor. In this proportionately strong Republican district they want us to elect a Democratic Senator. They don't want much.

We assure them, that after the election, they will discover that all their hopes have not been realized.

THE STRIKE SITUATION.

Some of our Democratic contemporaries are trying to belittle the efforts of President Roosevelt in his attempt to effect a compromise between the operators and the anthracite coal miners, and hint at imperialism.

The facts are simply these: The President, seeing the prospects of trade being paralyzed, of incalculable suffering, and untold misery, invited President John Mitchell and a few other leaders of the "Mine Workers' Union," to meet with some of the operators in the Executive Mansion at Washington, to see if there could not be an opportunity of either one side or the other yielding, or some arrangements made which would allow the miners to return to work.

The president of the Reading R. R. and the head of one of the largest mining corporations, being among the num r. President Roosevelt stated to the gentlemen that his object of requesting the conference was to try and effect a reconciliation, and made the request, not as the Executive, nor simply as an individual, but as the first citizen of the country. He informed them of his deep interest in the prosperity of every section of our republic, and greatly deplored the condition of affairs in the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania. He informed the gentlemen present of the great responsibility resting upon them, and made an appeal to them to agree upon such terms as would prevent the threatened famine in a commodity that was so essential to all business interests, and the actual requirement of millions of our citizens. He hoped that under the present conditions, they would forego personal considerations and make individual sacrifices for the general good.

President Mitchell replied and stated that the "Mine Workers' Union" was willing to do anything that was reasonable to end the difficulty and proposed to have the question arbitrated, and abide by the decision. He went further, than this and agreed that President Roosevelt should select the arbitrators. Nothing could have been more fair than his proposition, which was made in the spirit and interest of patriotism and humanity alone.

When this was submitted by Mr. Roosevelt to the operators, the President of the Reading R. R. speaking for them, in a most arbitrary way rejected the proposition, and in an ungracious manner, informed the president that they would settle their own affairs in their own way, thus ending the conference, by showing no appreciation whatever of the President's efforts to end this long struggle.

Up to this time there were many in sympathy with the operators but when they found how these sordid demagogues were determined to rule or ruin, the sentiment changed, and we are safe in saying that the great majority of our citizens are in sympathy with the miners.

There are perhaps real grievance on both sides which we will not discuss, but the whole question could and should have been settled at that conference. If it had, millions of dollars would have been saved, the people would not have been deprived of one of the necessities of life, and the state of Pennsylvania would have been spared the shame and disgrace of being compelled to call out the entire national guard, to maintain peace and order within its limits.

It may be of interest to our readers to know that the majority of the coal operators who refused to accede to the request of President Roosevelt, are prominent Democrats.

It is hinted, and the action of these gentlemen would indicate that it is a fact, that it is part of the programme of the Democratic Campaign, to prolong this strike until after the election, in the hope that it will inure to the interests of that party. As an evidence of this not a prominent Democrat has made an effort to end the struggle, not one word has been uttered by Mr. Pattison in order to accomplish this end. That gentleman is traveling through the state in his parlor car, not caring what becomes of the miner, or the poor consumer, only so he be elected governor, and expects Republicans to vote for him.

No Republican who has the interests of our great state at heart will jeopardize those interests by voting for this mercenary egotist, and calamity friend.

THE Democrats want Pennsylvania to have a Democratic Legislature and a Democratic Governor, and in that event promise there will be no strikes. We cheerfully agree to this proposition, for with a Democratic Governor and Legislature there will be so blessed little work of any kind that every one who has a job will want to hold on to it.

THE only objection Brother Meek offers to the election of Phil Foster is that he might keep the County funds in Hastings Bank. We suppose if Brother Carlin was elected he would carry the funds around in his stocking. Might we inquire where Borough Treasurer, George R. Meek, keeps his account. Please inform us?

THE Watchman is very much troubled over the fact that two Republican commissioners will be elected this fall, and as a consequence that office will loose considerable public printing. Don't worry, Brother Meek, we will do it just as good and as cheap, and besides we need it in our business.

IN a few years we will not have the privilege of showing our appreciation of the services of the Civil War heroes, they are fast passing away. While they are still with us let us not forget their services. Vote for H. H. Hewitt, and thus pay part of the debt we owe these noble men.

EARLE C. TUTEN our Candidate for Register is now canvassing the county. We are not ashamed to have him show himself to the people and have no apologies to make in his behalf. He is a good, honest, upright and capable young man.

EX-GOVERNOR Pattison could not take time from his rainbow chasing to ask the Democratic coal baron demagogues to heed the appeals of our suffering people. Republicans alone have been making an effort to break the strike.

But Not With the Line.

He had fished up the stream and down the stream and used flies, paste, worms and every other form of bait that the ingenuity of man could devise, but without result, and as he wended his way homeward at the close of the day his temper was high and his fish basket empty. Still, there was no occasion to publish the latter fact to the whole world, so when he met a friend by the way the following dialogue ensued:

"Been fishing?"

"Yes."

"Had a good day's sport?"

"Yes."

"What did you catch?"

"The 6:30."—Answers.

Instinct of the Mudfish.

The remarkable instinct of the mudfish to roll himself in a ball of mud when the dry season approaches is a wonderful provision of nature intended solely, it would seem, to prevent the extinction of the species. The most interesting fact about this fish is that it breathes my means of its gills when in its native element and by means of lungs during its voluntary imprisonment in the mud cocoon.

THE CORPORATIONS PAY THE TAXES

Under Republican Rule the Burden Is Placed On Them.

CITIZENS PAY NO STATE TAX

Republicans Have Paid Off Over $40,000,000 of State Debt Left By the Democrats, and Now Pennsylvania Is Free From Debt—Some Figures For Democratic Shouters to Study.

Every home owner in Pennsylvania has a vital interest in the approaching election. It is not only a question of Democrat or Republican, of Pattison or Pennypacker, but it is a matter of dollars and cents to every owner of a foot of land in the commonwealth. It was the Democratic party that plunged the state into a debt of $40,000,000 that has required forty years of Republican rule to lift. Republicans should not forget this.

And yet in spite of this fact the Republican system of state finances has been the subject of the most persistent attacks from its enemies. Democratic leaders when they assail the Republican financial system in Pennsylvania know that they are deliberately misrepresenting the facts. Unfortunately the public at large does not seem to have a very clear idea of the method by which state taxes are assessed and collected.

Under the wise and beneficent legislation of the Republican party in the past thirty-five years, the burdens of state taxation have been lifted from the shoulders of the individual and placed upon the corporations of the state.

CITIZENS PAY NO STATE TAX.

An impression prevails among the people that they are taxed for all the appropriations made to the public schools, charitable institutions, the judiciary, legislative expenses, the new capitol, etc., etc. As a matter of fact, our citizens pay no state tax except a liquor license tax, and one mill on the dollar where they own personal securities, such as bonds, mortgages, etc., the tax on the same being four mills, three of which are returned to the respective counties. Money for all expenses of the state comes from the corporations.

In direct contrast to this has been the attitude of the Democratic party and its legislation. Before the Republican party came into power all real estate, occupations over $200.00 per annum, cattle, etc., were taxed by the Democratic party in time of peace; and even with this enormous tax burden it left a debt of over $40,000,000 in 1860, to be provided for and lifted by the Republican party. And the Republican party has redeemed the credit of the state; it stands to-day before the world free from debt.

MISLEADING TAX RECEIPTS.

The manner in which the various collectors of taxes of the commonwealth have their bills and receipts printed is largely responsible for the misapprehension that exists in the minds of the people upon this question of state taxation. In almost every instance instead of having a separate item for state taxes to be used where the person has money at interest subject to taxation, and not otherwise, almost all bills that are sent out by the tax collectors have one item entitled "State and County Tax." Opposite this head is placed the amount of the county tax, and the person receiving the bill is naturally under the impression that the amount charged represents a combination of state and county taxes, and if questioned upon this point the answer is always the production of a tax receipt showing the payment of a certain sum of money under the head of "State and County Tax." The taxes paid to the various local collectors, under the designation "State and County Tax," go directly into the county treasury for the exclusive use of the county authorities.

The constant aim of Republican legislation has been to relieve the individual taxpayer. Prior to 1883 the indigent insane in the asylums of the state were wholly supported by the various local municipalities. This was a burden upon the individual taxpayer. As the state debt was reduced under the judicious management, it was believed that the commonwealth could afford to assist the counties in the support and maintainance of their unfortunate poor. By the Act of June 13th, 1883, the expense of the care and treatment of the insane poor of the state was equally divided between the state and the several counties. The amount paid by the state since 1885 under this act amounts to $10,525,000, more than $650,000 annually.

HELPING THE TOWNSHIPS.

Just as the burden of taxation has been liften to the shoulders of the state to that extent have the townships, cities and counties been aided and overburdened real estate owners assisted. In the two items of indigent insane and public schools, the state pays out of its treasury nearly $8,000,000 a year. To that extent every home-owner in the commonwealth is correspondingly benefitted.

By the Revenue Act of June 8th, 1891, three-fourth of the personal property tax is returned to the respective counties. The amount returned for the year ending November 30th, 1895, at the close of the Democratic administration was $1,575,019.70. The amount of personal tax returned to the several counties for the year ending November 30th, 1901, was $2,572,675.00.

Under the act of June 9th, 1891, the liquor licenses were taken from the state and given to the different localities. This was an additional benefit to the taxpayer because prior to that all liquor licenses has been paid into the state treasury. They amount to about $2,000,000 annually.

In addition to all these things the state pays the entire cost of the judiciary which amounts to upwards of half a million annually.

INTERESTING FIGURES.

The following is a partial list of the amount paid out of the treasury of the state for the benefit of the different localities and municipalities:

Amount paid annually since 1883, for the indigent insane	$658,000
Amount paid annually for common schools	7,015,720
Amount of personal tax returned	2,572,675
Liquor licenses diverted from the state to the local treasuries	2,000,000
Amount paid to support the judiciary, annually	652,662
The amount paid annually by the state for local purposes	$12,899,057
Annual saving on account of the exemption from taxation of real estate, horses and cattle, and trades, occupations and professions	7,000,000
Total annual saving to the respective localities, annually, since the Republicans assumed the control of the state affairs.	$19,899,057

Prior to the passage of the Act of 1885 the whole amount of moneyed capital returned for the purpose of state taxation was but $145,000,000. In that year, even under the imperfect working of the act, the amount returned for taxation was $395,000,000, an increase of $250,000,000. According to the auditor general's report of 1901 the amount of the four mill tax on personal property amounted to $2,563,375.02, and of this tax there was returned to the several counties $2,572,675.42.

These facts and figures speak for themselves. They are more impressive than any words could possibly be in demonstrating what the Republican porty has done in the way of lifting the burden of state taxation from the shoulders of the small home owner and farmer.

WHAT CORPORATIONS PAY.

The total revenue of the state during the year ending December 1st, 1901, was $17,727,432. Of this amount $10,307,433 was derived directly from the corporations by the various forms of taxation imposed upon these artificial bodies.

The only direct taxation affecting the individual was that upon money at interest, from which the state collected $2,563,375, as stated above. This in reality is not a state but a local tax, collected by the state and returned to the various municipalities. The aggragate revenue of the commonwealth for 1901 after deducting the personal tax refunded, was $15,154,757, of which amount the corporations paid $10,307,433; $2,452,201 was derived from licenses; $1,232,082 from the tax on collateral inheritance. These three items amounted to $13,991,716, leaving the sum of $1,163,041 received from a variety of sources none of them affecting the individual citizen.

It will be seen therefore, that out of the entire revenue of the commonwealth the only portion that could be contorted into a direct tax upon the citizen was that part of the money at interest not returned to the municipalities amounting to one-fourth of the total collected from that source and amounting to the insignificant sum of about 10 cents per annum for each person."

BROWN'S LABOR RECORD

He Has Always Defended the Rights of the Workingman.

Hon. W. M. Brown, candidate for lieutenant governor, has always been the friend of labor. He is a self-made man himself, having been a sheepherder on the plains when he was 15 years of age.

On March 11 1897 (while a member of the senate), on the discussion of the resolution to investigate the industrial conditions in the bituminous coal region, Senator Brown offered the following amendment:

"That a committee of three of the house and two of the senate be appointed to investigate the anthracite coal regions under the resolution, and a committee of three of the house and two of the senate be appointed to investigate the bituminous coal region, with the recommendation that members of both houses be selected from the standing committees of both houses on mines and mining."

Later, in the discussion on the same resolution, Mr. Brown said: "Mr. President, I stated yesterday, when this resolution was referred to the committee on mines and mining, that I was in favor of the resolution. I was in favor of the investigation. I meant what I said then. I mean it now. If these people want investigation, I am perfectly willing to give it to them in a business way. I desire to disclaim any factional idea as controlling this important question. This affects the homes and interests of labor classes in this comonwealth. I do not wish to pose as a demagogue, but if anything can be done in any way to alleviate any suffering, or correct any evils that may arise, I believe that it should be done."

DOLLARS AND CENTS TO THE VOTERS

Every County Receives More Than It Pays Into the Treasury.

RESULT OF REPUBLICAN RULE

Figures From Official Sources Which Cannot Be Denied—The Corporation Taxes Help Every Township and Village in the State Under the Republican System of Finances.

Harrisburg, Oct. 14.—Here is a statement that is at once startling and striking. It comes from official sources:

"There is not a single county in Pennsylvania which does not get directly back from the state treasury more money than the state collects from all its citizens, excepting so far as some of them may be indirectly taxed as stockholders in banks, railroads and other corporations. The largest excess repaid to the counties goes to the less wealthy ones having the smallest proportion of property subject to state tax in relation to their population."

SOME REPUBLICAN FACTS.

This is a sample of what the Republican party has done and is doing for the people of Pennsylvania. It is only one reason why Judge Pennypacker should be elected and the Democrats defeated, because they left a state debt of $40,000,000 to be paid off by the other fellows.

The following figures are taken from official records here in Harrisburg. They are given for the purpose of exhibiting more clearly the fact that the people get back more than they pay into the state treasury. How is it done? The corporations pay the taxes. What the individual citizen pays into the state treasury is for liquor license, mercantile tax, tax on money at interest, etc.

The first column in the following table represents the total amount paid into the state treasury from each county from all sources, including personal property tax, tax on municipal loans, collateral inheritances, fees of public offices, writs, wills, deeds, etc., mercantile, liquor, billiard room, brokers, peddlers and other kind of taxes. The second column includes the money returned to each county from the state in the shape of salary of judges, appropriations for hospitals and other institutions and for schools. The figures are for the year 1900.

From this it appears that there is no county in Pennsylvania which pays into the state treasury as much in taxes as it receives back in taxes collected by the state to be turned into the county treasury for the purpose of reducing local taxation. In other words, under the state tax laws enacted by the Republican party in Pennsylvania, the corporations pay the entire expense of carrying on the state government and pay into the state treasury $7,481,434 besides, which is returned back to the counties.

THE FEAR OF DEATH

IT SHOULD FIND NO LODGMENT IN ANY RATIONAL MIND.

Yet This Dread of Meeting the Inevitable Is So Universal That Our Entire Social Fabric Is Largely Built Upon It.

Do we dread death on the same principle that half a flock of sheep leap through a certain hole in a fence—because the other half has done so? For unless the fear be traditionary and hereditary it is hard to account for it.

Death is a change, occupying a moment, from one form of life to another. Whether it come in the course of nature or by accident or design, it is seldom painful; never probably so painful as a bout of the toothache. It brings us from a condition of bondage and uncertainty at best to one of freedom and security. But often it is a change from slavery, both physical and moral, to emancipation comparatively perfect, or, if we hold the materialist view, to everlasting unconsciousness. The spiritual state is emancipated from the inertia of matter and the tyranny of space; therefore thought will be presence, and a man's surroundings as to both thing and person will be inevitably such as are most desirable to him. The evil will be emancipated from the opposition of the good, and the good will not be grieved and hampered by the machinations of the evil. The whole chapter of accidents which here looms so large will there be eliminated. Time, which now makes us long for the arrival of an appointed hour and now dread its too speedy coming, will be no more. But we shall measure life by its intensity and by its opportunities. In other words, we shall be the makers of our own times and seasons.

Death takes us from a world of effects to one of causes. The soul is made of will and thought, and, as we may daily perceive, it is only the obstruction of material conditions that prevents us from immediately accomplishing our desires and beholding the realization of our thoughts. Again, death is inevitable to all and to any one who chooses is at any moment attainable. By what logic can our fear of it be defended?

Yet we fear it so much and so universally that our entire social fabric is built largely upon that fear. Our law makes death the supreme penalty. Our funerals are occasions of mourning, and the medical profession, one of the most numerous extant, spends its existence in combating death. We seek eagerly all nostrums or elixirs that promise us continuance of life. We ascribe supreme merit to the soldier who risks his life for his country or to the individual who sacrifices it for others. We laud the stoicism which affects to despise death, but which bases the virtue of that despising upon the acknowledged terror of the event. Our humanitarians spend sympathy and money in attempting to prolong the miserable condition of the poor and diseased. We shudder to hear of a vast natural calamity like that of Martinique or of avoidable accidents such as are furnished daily by railways and other instruments of civilization. And all the while it is the survivors who suffer, if any one does, though they, too, are soon comforted by time or the insurance companies. The dead man, the man who has entered upon the new and spiritual life, whom we absurdly pity, is free, and his troubles are over.

Suicides, it is true, are said to increase with civilization. But few philosophical suicides occur. The majority are induced by dread of life overcoming dread of death. It may be doubted if suicide be ever the act of a man at once perfectly brave and thoroughly sane. The value of this life—and it is a real value—is in the discipline and experience it gives, which it is our honest and sensible duty to improve to the utmost and to the last. Life may be interesting and arduous; it may be disappointing and irksome. It is very seldom if ever uniformly and positively agreeable. Fear, on the other hand, is one of the worst and basest of evils, and fear of death the most irrational. It must have originated in sheer ignorance and thoughtlessness. It ought to vanish before our modern enlightenment and sagacity, and with its disappearance will appear social changes that cannot but be revolutionary and salutary.—Julian Hawthorne in Brandur Magazine.

A Wise Answer.

The shah once asked a group of courtiers whom they thought the greater man—himself or his father. At first he could get no reply to so dangerous a question, the answer to which might cost the courtiers their heads. At last a wily old courtier said, "Your father, sire, for, though you are equal to your father in all other respects, in this he is superior to you—that he had a greater son than any you have."

Superstition.

Parson (visiting prison)—Why are you here, my misguided friend?

Prisoner—I'm the victim of the unlucky No. 13.

Parson—Indeed! How's that?

Prisoner—Twelve jurors and one judge.—Chicago News.

Following Good Preaching.

Vicar (severely, to his cook)—Mary, you had a soldier to supper last night.

Cook—Yes, sir; he's my brother.

Vicar—But you told me you had no brother.

Cook—So I thought, sir, until you preached last Sunday and told us we were all brothers and sisters.—London Tit-Bits.

TRIVIAL, YET POTENT.

The Tyranny of the Small and the Helplessness of Mankind.

The "tyranny of littleness" is the cruel despotism not of one master, but of a multitude of small ones. Witness the ironclad sway which any sovereign ruler of the kitchen may wield over a helpless household. What happiness or misery is bestowed lightly by one who turns a toaster or brews a pot of coffee!

We are all slaves to milliners and tailors. The milkman holds us helpless in his clutches. The chore man orders us about. The maid of all work beckons, and we follow. We bow and scrape before the haughty plumber.

We who would strike down monarchs and measure swords with ministers of finance, what sorry figures we cut in the community if slighted by the laundrymen! We scarce can hold our own against a surly railway porter, and it is but by the courtesy of Master Boots that we emerge from our hotel apartment. And who shall stand before the overwhelming power vested in an offended waiter? We cannot even mount a trolley car if the conductor and motorman choose to ignore us.

The man who rules the Stock Exchange cannot rest at night because an infant's voice banishes dreams. He is a victim to the insect world. Who will abolish the tyranny of flies and of mosquitoes?

Behold the tyranny of horses, dogs and cats, to which the great majority of mortals submit without a murmur. What master is as exacting as a tight shoe or a torturing collar? A parrot or a pet canary can sadly try men's souls! Yes, "things are in the saddle and ride mankind."

Who will do justice to the tyranny of the depraved inanimate taskmasters? A diamond necklace changes the history of empires. A courtier's cloak may pave the way to royal favor. A glove, a handkerchief, a glass slipper, what things to conjure with! Slaves of the lamp! Slaves of the ring!

Ah, the supremacy of trivial things, that one real tyranny to which we all bow down! Is there no hope that we may some day throw off the heavy yoke? Well is it for us to meditate upon this vital problem which touches each so closely. And as we meditate we may grow wise enough to break some of the multitudinous shackels that hold us spiritless and helpless in the power of the arch tyrant, "Little Things."—Caroline Ticknor in Brandur Magazine.

FLAG LANGUAGE.

The black flag is a sign of piracy.

To "strike the flag" is to lower the colors in submission.

Dipping the flag is lowering it slightly and hoisting it again to salute a vessel or fort.

The yellow flag shows a vessel to be in quarantine or is a sign of a contagious disease.

A "flag of truce" is a white flag displayed to an enemy to indicate a desire for parley or consultation.

The red flag in our service is a mark of danger and shows a vessel to be receiving or discharging her powder.

A flag at half mast means mourning. Fishing and other vessels return with the flag at half mast to announce the loss or death of some of their crew.

Flags are used as the symbol of rank and command, the officers using them being called "flag officers." Such flags are square to distinguish them from other banners.

The white flag is a sign of peace. After a battle parties from both sides often go out to the field to rescue the wounded or bury the dead under the protection of the white flag.

If the president of the United States goes aboard, the American flag is carried in the bow of his barge or hoisted at the mast of the vessel on board of which he is.—New Education.

Didn't Want Too Much.

A Lone Star State man tells the following story of a negro baptizing in Texas:

An old negro preacher did the honors, and the candidate for baptism was a coal black negro woman. The preacher led his victim far out into the stream, where she could be thoroughly immersed, and at the auspicious moment he cried in a loud voice:

"Be striddy, sister, be striddy, and you'll cum up whitah den snow!"

"Oh, parson," she exclaimed, "dat's askin' too much; a cream colouh'll do!"—New York Times.

March of Refinement.

"Now that I think of it," remarked the passenger with the skullcap, "there used to be a little place on this line they called Kiss Station, but it must be something else now. I haven't heard the conductor call it out."

"We're pretty close to it, I think," replied the passenger with the goatee. "But it isn't Kiss Station any more. They've changed the name, but retained the idea. It's now"—

"Happy Junction!" bawled out the conductor as the train slackened its speed for the next stop.—Chicago Tribune.

Unfortunate.

Mrs. Von Blumer—I don't know. I was out the day they moved in.—New York Herald.

Why a Man Shouldn't.

There are two things that should keep a man from worrying—if he have no reason for worrying, there's no use worrying; if he have a reason, there is no use.—Los Angeles Herald.

A QUEER EXPERIENCE.

It Made One Man a Believer In the Supernatural.

"I want to tell you a very queer experience I had," said the colonel. "It borders so much on the superstitious it throws me somewhat in doubt as to whether I believe in the supernatural. You all know what a fondness I have for driving, and the more spirited the horses are the better I feel to put them on their mettle. Well, a few summers ago I bought a pair of high strung, strongly built bay horses and began to drive them. One Sunday morning I carefully hooked them to my surrey. I personally saw that every strap was well hooked, the chains carefully adjusted and, in fact, every precaution taken to have them so harnessed that there could be nothing to fret them.

"I drove up St. Charles avenue to Washington, out Washington to the railroad crossing, back again to St. Charles avenue and then up to Carrollton until opposite the old Carrollton gardens and there stopped to rest under a tree. We had moved at a pretty good pace, the weather was warm, and I believed that a little rest would do the horses good. I forgot to tell you that I had in the rear seat of the surrey my wife and daughters.

"We stopped just under a tree, on the side of the neutral ground, and there waited. Just then a party of about twenty bicyclists came in sight, coming up the avenue. As they passed us my horses reared and made one plunge. I had the reins in my hand, and the ladies were seated in the surrey. What made me do it I do not know, nor can I account for it, but I let go the reins and the horses ran away—ran away, mind you, from the surrey unhitched. The surrey remained perfectly still for a moment and then by its own momentum slowly slid down to the sidewalk. We all got out without the slightest anxiety whatever. It was perfectly astounding.

"We made a careful examination of the straps, the hooks, the chains, the pole, and there was nothing broken, nothing strained, nothing bent—in fact, it was just as if some unseen spirits had carefully unhooked the horses and let them go. The horses were brought back in about two hours. We again made a careful examination of the harness, and I assure you the entire outfit was in perfect condition—nothing broken, nothing hurt or damaged whatever. Now, how can you account for that? I am not inclined to believe in the supernatural, but at times when I think over this incident I do not know what to believe."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

ANIMAL ODDITIES.

It is said that the frigate bird can fly an entire week without stopping to rest.

Some of the cats in Liberia are of a bright red tint, and they are very conspicuous in the moonlight.

The cry of a young seal when wounded or about to be attacked resembles that of a child in distress, and tears flow from its eyes.

The common herring is the most difficult of all marine creatures to catch alive for an aquarium. A whale is the most difficult to preserve alive.

Cranes, storks and wild geese fly fast enough to make the trip from northern Europe to Africa in a week, but most of them rest north of the Mediterranean.

A fox is dainty as well as crafty and prefers the tongues of lambs for food. He has been seen to chase sheep until they, on becoming tired, hung out their tongues, which he then tears off and eats.

A caterpillar cannot see more than a centimeter ahead—that is to say, less than two-fifths of an inch. The hairs on the body are said to be of as much use as its eyes in letting it know what is going on around.

The Royal Color.

Purple has always been considered the royal color. The ill fated Charles I. was, however, at his own desire, crowned in a robe of white. Although he was seriously reminded that of the two exceptions to this rule, Richard II. and Henry VI., who wore white satin robes at their coronations, both had come to a violent end, one at Pontefract castle and one in the Tower, Charles I. was resolute in his decision, and, when, twenty-three years afterward, almost to a day, his body was conveyed to its grave through a heavy snowstorm, the superstitious could not help remarking that the third "white king" had suffered a violent death.—St. James Gazette.

Her New Jacket.

A naval officer engaged in ordnance duty on a home station was given to talking in his sleep. One night he awakened his wife by starting up in bed and exclaiming in accents of pitying distress:

"She must have a new jacket! I must manage to get one for her!"

The wife, knowing her husband's slumbers had never before been disturbed by the requirements of her wardrobe, became vastly agitated and gripped him by the arm.

"William! William!" she breathed earnestly into his ear, hope meanwhile rising high in her breast. "Who is she?"

"My three inch gun!" sighed the overtaxed ordnance man.

Proud.

"I want you to understand, sir, that my pride forbids me to accept anything from you after I marry your daughter."

"How are you going to live?"

"Well, I thought you might make some kind of a settlement beforehand."—Life.

American Perfumes

When it comes to QUALITY the American Perfumes have it—although some still cling to the foreign names, liking anything "foreign" whether it has real superiority or not. We are showing the favorite and new odors of Colgate, Palmer, Wright, Reiger, Stearns, Spiehler, and other leading American Perfumes—and invite you to come here for your perfumes. Of course, we handle the imported Perfumes also and should be pleased to supply you.

ALL WRONG.

The Mistake is Made by Many Bellefonte Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache.

To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine relief is cure.

Backache is kidney ache.

You must cure the kidneys.

A Bellefonte resident tells you how this can be done.

Mr. William Valence, East Lamb Street, night watchman, says: "For 2 years or more off and on, I had trouble with my back and pains in the upper part of my spine accompanied by a disagreeable feeling in my head and acute lameness right over my kidneys. At first I thought it was my liver but later found it arose from the kidneys not acting properly. I read of the many cures that had been made in Bellefonte by Doan's Kidney Pills and I got them at F. Potts Green's drug store. They stopped the annoyance from the kidneys and removed the lameness and aching in my back. They did me any amount of good and I do not hesitate to recommend them."

Mr. Hindman, of New Brighton, will probably be Mr. Gamel's successor at this place, although it is not definitely settled.

Mr. Gamel has made many friends during his stay in Bellefonte who will learn with extreme regret of his departure.

RECEPTION TO MRS. FAIRBANKS.

Brilliant Social Event at the Home of General and Mrs. Hastings.

The stately, elegant and hospitable home of ex-Governor D. H. Hastings was the scene last night of one of the most brilliant social events that has ever taken place in Bellefonte. The occasion was the reception given by Gen. and Mrs. D. H. Hastings in honor of Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, President General of the Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, who is visiting the Conference of that society now being held in Petrikin Hall.

Governor and Mrs. Hastings had their home decorated both outside and in with the national emblem, and a throng of visiting Daughters, with those of Bellefonte Chapter and their friends, comprised the distinguished gathering.

Mrs. Hastings and Mrs. Fairbanks, assisted by the following ladies, Miss Frazer, Mrs. Hoopes, Miss Crowell, Mrs. Stanford, Miss Mickley, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Keller, Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Reeder, received in the white parlor, so everyone had the opportunity and pleasure of greeting the honored guest.

The spacious parlor and library were crowded with ladies, who were gowned superbly and resplendent in silks, laces and diamonds. Many of the costumes were marvels of artistic taste, skill and design and in every direction the scintilating sparkle of precious gems greeted the eye.

Of course, there were the usual number of gentlemen present, but in their conventional evening dress were in marked contrast to the bright and exquisite variegated shades of the ladies' attire.

The large and magnificent dining room was arranged in a striking and attractive manner, being the handiwork of the hostess and Mrs. John N. Lane. The centre piece on the table was of a novel and original design, the idea being to conform to the occasion. It consisted of a military drum with alternate bands of red, white and blue flowers, surmounted by a miniature cannon, and dainty ribbons of the same colors extended from the chandelier in festoons to the four corners of the large dining table, on each corner of which was an elaborate candelabra with four candles with shades of red, white and blue. On the table were every variety of the confectioner's creation in artistic shapes and designs, all in patriotic colors.

The guests were served by young ladies of our town, friends of Mrs. Hastings, who presided with grace and dignity and presented each lady and gentleman with a tiny bow of red, white and blue ribbon to be worn on the dress or coat.

The reception continued until 11 o'clock when the guests departed to their various places of abode.

"The blood is the life." Science has never gone beyond that simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgment are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. No one can be well balanced in mind and body whose blood is impure. No one can have a wholesome and pure life unless the blood is pure. Foul blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. When the blood is pure, body and brain are alike healthy and life becomes a daily happiness.

Krebs—Reed.

On Wednesday evening the home of D. C. Krebs at Pine Grove Mills was the scene of a very pretty wedding when Rev. C. T. Aikens pronounced the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Katharine L. Krebs and William E. Reed.

The house was prettily decorated with flowers and quite a number of guests were present at the ceremony which took place at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Flossie Goss, of Greensburg, was maid of honor and the best man was D. C. Krebs. After the ceremony and congratulations a fine wedding supper was served and the newly married couple, accompanied by the good wishes of a host of friends, proceeded to their own nearby newly furnished home. The bride is a daughter of the late Levi Krebs and is a most capable and attractive young woman. Her husband is a member of the firm of Reed Bros., mill operators and is held in high esteem in the community in which he lives.

A Dreadful Trio.

There are three common diseases, Scrofula, Catarrh and Consumption. The first and second commonly go hand in hand, and sometimes the third joins them,-a dreadful trio!

Why call attention to them?

Simply to tell what will cure scrofula and catarrh and prevent consumption according to incontrovertible evidence It is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

In the fall the progress of these diseases is most rapid and we would advise that treatment with this great medicine be begun at once.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional disease.

It originates in a scrofulous condition of the blood and depends on that condition.

It often causes headache and dizziness, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, affects the vocal organs and disturbs the stomach.

It is always radically and permanently cured by the blood-purifying, alterative and tonic action of

Hood's Sarsaparilla

This great medicine has wrought the most wonderful cures of all diseases depending on scrofula or the scrofulous habit.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best cathartic.

BIG AND LITTLE NITTANY.

A Visit to the People who Compose the Population of the Two Valleys.

My trip last week was not marked by much of interest. Indeed there were no startling developments until I reached Mingoville and there quite a number of the workmen at the McNitt saw mill subscribed to the REPUBLICAN, among them F. W. Shamp, John C. Royer, J. H. Leddick and Commodore P. Benson. S. P. Hackman, a farmer near by, also gave me his name. I was very kindly entertained that night at the home of Mr. and Mrs Wm. Losch of Hublersburg.

The following day about Hublersburg, Snydertown and Nittany I found every body very busy. Among the pleasant calls I made was one on Stephen Best, who is an old-time subscriber. I lodged and enjoyed myself at the home of Samuel Tweed. Two names were added to the list, namely James Lockard of Lamar and Howard Smith of Nittany. All through the county the coal strike was a topic of conversation and the most fortunate individual in this respect in Nittany valley was Solomon Peck, who had a large supply of hard coal, but of course he has disposed of it, though his telephone is constantly kept warm with inquiries for more coal. I was very sorry to hear of the illness of both Harvey Rossman and his estimable mother.

Wednesday I went to little Nittany valley, the capital city of which is Jacksonville. M. S. Betz, the affable merchant and postmaster, gladly subscribed to the REPUBLICAN. He is active and energetic in business and a very earnest Republican. Then I added the name of Mrs Anna B. Condo, at whose home I spent the night. Her son Jonathan is away from home nearly all the time with his threshing machine. I met him on the Monday previous at the farm of W. M. Carson, near Bellefonte.

Frank Strunk of Bellefonte is living on the Blanchard farm there, assisting Mr. Butler. The crop of apples on this farm is large. Indeed, there are many apples throughout Nittany valley and a large quantity is being shipped away.

Then I came over to Howard where a great deal of building is in progress. On one of these new houses H. C. Holter was employed. Jacob. DeHaas, the hotelist was in Pittsburg last week, but his right hand man, Mr. Rimert, very ably filled his place and had the house so full on Thursday night that it looked as if at least one man would not get in. John Riley and John S. Bathurst of Mt. Eagle became subscribers and also Lawrence Bathurst of Roland.

NEWTON S. BAILEY.

The D. A. R. Reception.

The assembly and reception in the Armory Wednesday night, given by Bellefonte Chapter, in honor of their visiting sisters of the D. A. R., was a recherche affair and was attended by almost four hundred persons.

The interior of the building had been handsomely and appropriately decorated for the occasion, the national colors prevailing.

In the centre of the large room a dias had been erected for the musical performers who comprise Chappell's orchestra, from Williamsport, which discoursed delightful music throughout the evening. The stage had been arranged to represent a camp scene, with a tent and arms and accoutrements stacked at either side in Continental soldier style. Immediately in front of the stage was a large emblem of the order, at least three feet in diameter, the points of which were electric lights, giving a novel effect. At the front of the Armory was another emblem of similar design. The space in front of the stage was divided from the main auditorium by a screen of evergreens cleverly constructed to represent a hedge. Within this space were tables and chairs, and during the evening refreshments were served by Joseph Ceader, caterer, who had a corps of polite and obliging waiters who were kept busy supplying the wants of the three hundred and fifty or more guests, who patiently waited their turn and there was no confusion, whatever, in that department.

Shortly after 10 o'clock the centre of the room was cleared of people and the young folks were given an opportunity to dance which was continued until 12 o'clock, many of the D. A. R. remaining until that hour.

Probably never within the history of the Bellefonte Armory has there been so many distinguished and representative ladies assembled within its walls, and never has there been such an elaborate display of handsome gowns and an equal amount of elaborate and expensive jewels as were seen there Wednesday night. To particularize would be invidious. Everyone looked charming, and socially it was enjoyed to the full by every person present, the ladies of the Bellefonte Chapter making every effort to have it an occasion of unalloyed pleasure.

We do not wish to transgress the rules of propriety but are confident we will be pardoned for just one personal mention, and that is in the case of Miss Frazer, state regent, who on account of her prominent and honorable position, was the observed of all observers, and by her graceful and cordial manner together with her elegant and distinguished appearance captivated the people of our little town.

The following is the list of the ladies who received the guests as they arrived: Mrs. D. H. Hastings, Mrs. Isaac Mitchell, Miss Frazer, Mrs. Mellon, Mrs. Hoopes, Mrs. Harry Keller, Miss Crowell, Mrs. Stanford, Mrs. A. G. Curtin, Mrs. Wilbur F. Reeder, Mrs. W. Fred Reynolds, and Mrs. James A. Beaver, it was the most remarkable assemblage of ladies that could be gathered together in any town or city in Pennsylvania, for among their number were the wives of three exgovernors of our state—Mrs. A. G. Curtin, Mrs. James A. Beaver and Mrs. D. H. Hastings, and the appearance of Mrs, Curtin on this occasion is a compliment to the Daughters of the American Revolution which will be appreciated, for owing to her advanced years it is a rare circumstance for her to attend public affairs of this character, but made an exception in this case, by kindly being present to show her friendliness to this patriotic society.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Quiet Wedding.

Wednesday evening Miss Bertha Gentzel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs Robert Gentzel, and William Rider, both of Bush Addition, were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage on East Linn street by Dr. Wilford P. Shriner. The ceremony was performed promptly at 8 o'clock, the only guests present being the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Bartley.

The bride was becomingly attired in white Paris muslin and after the ceremony the young couple proceeded to the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rider, where they will reside for a time at least.

FULL PROCEEDINGS OF D. A. R. CONFERENCE

for graves was discussed which brought out a diversity of opinion, as to the size and style it should be, and before the question was decided a motion was made to adjourn for the dinner hour, before adjourning the Regent announced the following committees:

Auditing Committee—Mrs. Airicke, Harrisburg; Mrs. Ammen, Pittsburg; Mrs. Scott, Lock Haven.

Committee to write to the Sisters of the late Mrs. Jodon expressing the sympathy of the Conference in their affliction:

Mrs. Hunsicker, Valley Forge; Mrs. Saeger, Liberty Bell; Mrs. Brusstar, Berks County.

The afternoon session what was one of great interest and largely attended was called to order by the Regent at two o'clock and reports received from those Chapters which did not report in the morning.

Then followed the election of State Secretary and Treasurer, there was no contest and the present incumbents Miss Emma Crowell and Mrs. Enoch Stanford were unanimously elected to these several offices. We congratulate the Conference in their wisdom in retaining the ladies in the position they have so acceptably filled. Miss Crowell as Secretary makes a most admirable officer and it would be difficult to find any one who could discharge the duties of that trying station with more credit to herself and assist in the business of the Conference with such ability.

After the election the Conference united in singing "Hail Columbia" Mrs. Hayes presiding at the piano.

Miss Fraser at this point announced the Committee on Resolutions as follows: Mrs. Broches, Washington; Mrs. Truxell, Du Bois; Mrs. Royer, Lawrence; Mrs. Cook, Brookville.

Then followed a discussion on "The reduction of Representation in the Continental Congress," Mrs. Ammen of Pittsburg and Mrs. McCartney of Wilkesbarre took a decided stand on the question.

There was great interest manifested by the Daughters over the question of making a suitable gift to the "Cruiser" Pennsylvania, it was a little cloudy as to where the money was to come from, and although the motion prevailed, it was re-considered and finally shelved, it was rather amusing to hear this discussion as some of the Daughters displayed more feeling than to our mind was necessary, and some observations of a personal character were indulged in. We don't think they meant any thing but it was real interesting for a while.

The order of business was suspended in order to allow Mrs. James R. Mellon to deliver an address on "The Memorial Continental Hall", she described the object of the building and made an appeal for contributions to aid the enterprise a Daughter of Independence Hall Chapter pledged herself in the sum of $100.

A resolution was offered that the Registrar pass upon and determine the elegibility of applicants for membership and that the office of Chapter Registrar be dispensed with, this motion caupes considerable discussion, and was finally disposed of by being shelved.

The Chester County Chapter offered a resolution that this Conference petition the municipal authorities at Philadelphia and request them not to allow the Liberty Bell to again be removed from that city, as possible harm might befall this priceless emblem of Liberty, the resolution was adopted, and the secretary directed to forward a copy of it to the President of Philadelphia Council.

At this point Mrs. Ambrose Schmidt and Miss Henrietta Butts sang a beautiful duet; accompanied on the piano by Miss Louise Harper.

Mrs. McCartney moved that the Governor be requested to have published the records of Revolutionary Soldiers now in the archives at Harrisburg, this was adopted.

Then followed a discussion on amendments to the Constitution, in relation to officers being chosen for more than one term, and the number of representatives each chapter is entitled to in the state conference, and in relation to paying the expenses of the various officers. After this was disposed of the conference adjourned to meet Friday morning.

At 10 o'clock Friday morning, with a tap of the gavel, Miss Susan Carpenter Frazer declared the Pennsylvania Conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution closed.

The Secretary gathered together her books and papers and the State Regent taking her gavel, the symbol of her authority, and walking from the Hall left it quiet and deserted. Thus closing the largest and one of the most interesting sessions of this body ever held in this State.

All the sessions of conference were marked by the kindliness of feeling, which prevailed among the representatives. It is true there were some questions which caused discussion, but there was a unanimity of sentiment to yield points, rather than provoke feelings other than those which should prevail in a deliberative body composed of ladies who were educated, cultured and refined.

The closing scenes were of a quiet and dignified character, and it appeared to us that it was with more feeling of regret than pleasure, that the President announced the final adjournment.

The morning session opened with the Lord's Prayer, the minutes of Thursday proceedings were then read and adopted, after which Mrs. Ammen of Pittsburg revived the discussion of presenting to the Cruiser Pennsylvania a suitable gift. This brought forth an expression of opinion from several of the representatives and it was finally decided to allow each Chapter to take up the question in their local body and to abide by the decision of the Continental Congress.

The Auditing Committee reported having examined the reports of the Secretary and Treasurer and approved the same.

The Committee appointed to prepare a letter of condolence and sympathy to the sisters of Mrs. Hall, deceased, read the letter they had prepared which was accepted and ordered to be forwarded to those ladies.

The Committee on Resolutions reported as follows:

Be it Resolved that the sincere thanks of the visiting Daughters of the American Revolution, assembled in State Conference at Bellefonte, be given to the Bellefonte Chapter, for their beautiful and hospitable entertainment, and

To the pages for their courteous attention, and

To the management of Petrikin Hall for the use of their cheerful and commodious rooms, and

To those who added so much to the exercises by their beautiful singing, and

To the press for their courtesy and attention, and

To the committee of Arrangements in the Armory, and

To the General and Mrs. Hastings for the splendid reception given in honor of our President General, Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks, and

To the citizens of Bellefonte whose many favors we hereby acknowledge, and

To the President and Faculty of State College and the Sons of the Revolution for their kind invitation for this day and to which we look forward with much pleasure.

MRS. COOK.

This completed the business of the Conference, and after singing the "Star Spangled Banner," the State Regent, Miss Frazer, declared the Conference adjourned.

After adjournment, the members of the D. A. R. and a large number of friends were taken to visit State College. They were conveyed to that point in a special train over the Bellefonte Central R. R., the train having been provided by the "Sons of the Revolution," some of whom accompanied the party. Arriving at State College they were met by the Faculty of that Institution and several hundred of the scholars, who received them with cheers. A band of music was also in waiting and the distinguished guests were escorted to the College Chapel, which was appropriately decorated for the occasion. The following ladies occupied the platform:—Miss Frazer, Mrs. Stanford, Miss Crowell, Mrs. Hoopes, Mrs. McCartney and Mrs. Mitchell.

In the absence of Dr. Atherton, president of the College, who was unable to be present owing to a business engagement in a distant city, Prof. Buckhout took his place and acted for him. This gentleman, in a short address, in the most cordial manner, welcomed the representatives of this patriotic society to State College, and extended the freedom of that institution. Miss Frazer responded for the conference, thanking the faculty and teachers for the warm greeting and expressed their gratification at the pleasure of being with them that day. Prof. Gill then proceeded to give a brief history of the College; what it has done in the past, what it expects to accomplish in the future, and in a terse manner, told the ladies of the hopes and possibilities of the institute. Mrs. McCartney made a most excellent address, full of praise and admiration for this college, and before closing made an appeal to every member of the D. A. R. to petition the members of Legislature from their respective districts to vote a large appropriation for this admirable institution.

The Faculty and students were delighted with her words of praise and encouragement, and she won the hearts of every one connected with the College. After she had finished speaking, the guests were escorted to the Armory where an elaborate luncheon had been prepared by Harrison, the caterer. The tables were handsomely laid, and a neat menu card, which bore the imprint of the Society was at each plate.

The students served at the tables and did so in the most polite and obliging manner. After the feast was completed Hon. A. O. Furst and Col. James P. Coburn made short speeches, which were appropriate and greatly enjoyed. The visitors were then taken in charge of by the faculty, and shown through the buildings and over the extensive grounds. This part of the programme had to be carried out hurriedly owing to the time limit, but enough was seen to convince every one that Pennsylvania State College ranks in every particular among the finest institutions of learning in the land. Expressions of delight and surprise were heard on every side for but few were prepared to find among the foot hills of the Alleghenies, the beauty of scenery, the handsome and commodious buildings, the advanced ideas carried out in imparting knowledge the modern appliances and the high character and attainment of those in charge of this greatest of all our state institutions.

The faculty and students accompanied their visitors to the station and bid them a hearty farewell.

We have endeavored during this week, to keep our readers informed of the proceedings of the conference and of the social functions given in honor of these noble women, and hope that our efforts have proven satisfactory. We have devoted quite a great deal of space in our little paper to this subject but did so cheerfully, for we have great respect and admiration for this society, whose only object is to perform works of patriotism and philanthrophy, and too much praise cannot be given them for what they have accomplished and are now doing in this direction.

Don't be deceived or humbugged by people who claim the discovery of some hitherto unknown herb or root in swamps or on some mountain or prairie for the cure of kidney and bladder troubles. Any doctor or druggist will tell you that such claims are fraudulent. Foley's Kidney Cure simply contains remedies that are recognized by the most skillful physicians as best for these complaints, so don't be credulous or Foolish. C. M. Parrish.

It Heals the Lungs.

When suffering from a racking cough, take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. The soreness will be relieved and a warm, grateful feeling and healing of the parts effected will be experienced. Take no substitute, C. M. Parrish.

Bright's Disease.

High living, intemperance, exposure and many other things bring on Bright's disease. Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent Bright's disease and all other kidney or bladder disorders if taken in time. Take nothing else. C. M. Parrish.

A Card.

The manufacturers of Banner Salve have authorized the undersigned to guarantee it for burns, cuts, sores, ulcers, tetter, eczema and all skin diseases. You have your money back if it doesn't do all it claims. C. M. Parrish.

Look Out For Fever.

Billiousness and liver disorders at this season may be prevented by cleansing the system with De Witt's Little Early Risers. These famous little pills do not gripe. They move the bowels gently, but copiously, and by reason of the tonic properties, give tone and strength to the glands. Parrish's Drug Store.

It is exasperating to one who knows Foley's Honey and Tar, and knows what it will do, to have a dealer recommend something else as "just the same" or "just as good" for colds, coughs, croup, la grippe, etc. C. M. Parrish.

Foley's Kidney Cure.

Is a pure medicine, and contains in concentrated form, remedies recognized by the most skilful of the medical profession as the most effective agents for the cure of kidney and bladder diseases. C. M. Parrish.

Nervous Exhaustion.

An Every Day History, High Strung, Nervous, Excitable, Constant Headaches, No Rest at Night, Heart Weak, Appetite Poor, Loss of Weight, Strength All Gone

READ THE FOLLWING:—Miss Barbara Brock, of Coldwell, Pa., 12 miles out of Lock Haven, Pa., says: "I have been extremely nervous for a long time—any unusual noise would upset me. I simply had no appetite at all and felt weak and easily tired. My head ached a great deal and at night I was troubled so much with sleeplessness. I got some of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills and they did me a wonderful lot of good. My appetite returned, the headaches left me and I felt well and strong in every way after using the Pills."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50c. a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D. are on every package. For sale at Krumrine's Drug Store

The Worst Form.

Multitudes are singing the praises of Kodol, the new discovery which is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by digesting what they eat by cleansing and sweetening the stomach and by transforming their food into the kind of pure, rich blood that makes you feel good all over. Mrs. Cranfield, of Troy, I. T., writes: For a number of years I was troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia which grew into the worst form. Finally I was induced to use Kodol and after using four bottles I am entirely cured. I heartily recommend Kodol to all sufferers from indigestion and dyspepsia. Take a dose after meals it digests what you eat. Parrish's drug store.

Natural Anxiety.

Mothers regard approaching winter with uneasiness, children take cold so easily. No disease costs more little lives than croup. It's attack is so sudden that the sufferer is often beyond human aid before the doctor arrives. Such cases yield readily to One Minute Cough Cure. Liquifies the mucus, allays inflammation removes danger. Absolutely safe. Acts immediately. Cures coughs, colds, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. F. S. McMahon, Hampton, Ga: "A bad cold rendered me voiceless just before an oratorical contest. I intended to withdraw but took One Minute Cough Cure. It restored my voice in time to win the medal." Parrish's Drug Store.

To Stop a Cold.

After exposure or when you feel a cold coming on take a dose of Foley's Honey and Tar. It never fails to stop a cold if taken in time. C. M. Parrish.

The editor of the Fordville, Ky., Miscellaneous, writes as a postscript to a business letter: I was cured of kidney trouble by taking Foley's Kidney Cure." Take nothing else. C. M. Parrish.

Forty Years' Torture.

To be relieved from a torturing disease after 40 years' torture might well cause the gratitude of anyone. That is what DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve did for C. Haney, Geneva, O. He says "DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me of piles after I had suffered 40 years." Cures cuts, burns wounds, skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits. Parrish's Drug Store.

For Over Sixty Years.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over sixty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cure wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by all druggists in all parts of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind.

Kodol Digests what you Eat

Dyspepsia Cure

People once thought that the only way to cure indigestion was to stop eating. The trouble with such treatment is, that to stop eating is to stop living. KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE has changed the whole method of treating this complaint. It contains all the natural digestive fluids and digests all you eat without aid from the stomach, so you can eat all the good food you want and be cured of your trouble at the same time.

"I have been troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia for several years and often sat down to eat but had to give it up after eating only two bites. I used two bottles of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and am alright to-day. Can now eat anything I want. W. L. Easton, Audubon, Iowa."

It can't help but do you good

Prepared by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1. bottle contains 2½ times the 50c. size.

When you suffer from billousness or constipation, use the famous little liver pills known as DeWitt's Little EARLY RISERS. They never gripe.

of Williamsport, will make his monthly visit here

TWO DAY ONLY,

Tuesday and Wednesday,

Oct. 21 & 22,

from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., with headquarters in

THE LARIMER BLDG.

OPPOSITE COURT HOUSE

Bellefonte, Pa.

I can examine your eyes at your home, by appointment, without extra charge.

Hundreds are going blind daily, from the need of the proper prescribed glasses and from delaying attention to the eyes from time to time. Nothing will destroy your eyesight quicker than cheap glasses or glasses not properly fitted to your eyes.

Prof. Angel, in the short time he has been visiting this section, has met with marked success. Scores of leading citizens of this community have found relief from his treatment. It is not necessary to travel to Eastern cities for treatment when you can consult an eminent oculist at home.

At State College,

JOHN C. MILLER.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

—Among the pensions recently issued is Isaac Miller, Bellefonte, $8 per month; David McKinney, of Howard, $12 per month.

—Chicken-pox is epidemic among the little folks of the Primary school at Milesburg. About 25, one-half of the little learners, are laid up with the disease.

—Rev. Charles Inglis, of London, who was a colaborer of Moody's for many years, will hold a series of Evangelistic meetings in Petrikin Hall, beginning on November 16th, to 28th.

—Mrs. Sarah Potter, who was injured by a fall last week we regret to learn, is not improving. On account of her extreme age her friends are very much concerned about her condition.

—Mrs. J. J. Arney west of Centre Hall fell while walking through her bed room Wednesday and sustained painful injuries. Two ribs on the right side were broken and her arm was badly injured.

—Next Sunday St. John's Reformed Church will be reopened and rededicated, Sunday School will meet at 9.30 a. m. Rededication at 10.30 a. m. Song services 7.30 p. m. Special music at both services.

The citizens of Unionville and vicinity are to be congratulated in having him locate in their midst and we wish him unbounded success and prosperity in his new field.

BISHOP GARVEY IN BELLEFONTE

Confirmed a Large Class and Blessed a Cross.

Rt. Rev. Eugene A. Garvey, of Altoona, Bishop of this diocese, paid his first visit as a Bishop to St. John's Catholic church Sunday and as a result the services were of more than usual importance and interest.

In the morning at 10:30 the church was crowded to the doors. The high mass was read by Rev. P. McArdle, pastor of the church. The singing for the occasion was especially beautiful and inspiring. The solo parts were taken by Mr. Saunders, of State College, Michael Hazel and Mrs. Arthur Brown.

The Bishop preached and eloquent and scholarly sermon, reading his scripture lesson from the Gospel according to St. Matthew, the 18th chapter and the 23rd to the 35th verses inclusive. He impressed upon his hearers the importance of right living, morality and virtue and the benefits of a christian home training. He urged upon all to be faithful to their church and spoke of the importance of the Catholic school system from a Catholic standpoint.

After the sermon and the High mass the confirmation services were held. The sponsers were Michael Hazel, Thaddeus Hamilton, Mrs. Joseph Ceader and Mrs. Michael Hazel. There were ninety-three in the class which the Bishop confirmed, one of the largest in the history of the church.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock interesting and impressive services were held in the Catholic cemetery when Bishop Garvey blessed the beautiful cross which Matthias Thal and his wife, Catherine donated to the church. After blessing the cross the Bishop made a short address showing what the cross symbolized and its importance to the true Catholic.

St. John's parish within the last few years has had a growth of numbers which is almost phenomenal, and has probably more members than any other denomination in our community.

The pastor, Rev. P. McArdle, has been indefatigable in his efforts to advance its interests. Since he has been in Bellefonte, a large and handsome stone church has been erected, a beautiful and costly parsonage has been built, and a parochial school has been established with a corps of efficient Sisters in charge, and a large number of scholars in attendance. By his zeal and unostentatious manner Rev. McArdle commands the respect of every one in this community, without regard to their church affiliations.

A Letter From Camp.

The following letter from Roger T. Bayard of Co. B. 5th Regt. N. G. P. was written to his parents has been handed us with permission to publish, which we gladly do, as so many of our readers are interested in every thing connected with our home Co.

ASHLAND, Schuykill Co. Oct 9th '02

We have landed among what all the papers say is our enemies but so far we fail to see one miner who has not a kind and welcome word and greeting for us.

We reached Ashland this morning about eight o'clock and now everything is astir and excitement getting camp in order.

The town of Ashland has an inhabitants of eight thousand people, over four thousand miners. Poor fellows, we certainly do pity them for they and their families look as though they were nearly starved. The little children came into camp early this morning, and asked for food, and you should have seen the boys emptying their kits and knappsacks and giving them all they had left from their rations which they had brought from home, and a great many of the boys gave them money.

As I said before, the town has eight thousand inhabitants, and what do you think they have 63 licensed saloons in the town. We do not expect any trouble at all, for the people are not of that kind. We lie in a beautiful valley between what is called the Logan and Tunnel mountains and right in the mouths of the Potts and Freshmans colliers which are of course lying idle. The camp is entirely surrounded by miners and their wives and children. I have given you as near as I can a discription of our situation. Now in regard to the clerkship at Headquarters, Captain Stackpole of Col. Elders Staff told me this morning that I would be detailed again as soon as camp is opened. I will close now, as I must get to work. All the boys enjoyed the trip immensely and all are well, especially the "Irish Mess." With love to all.

BERT BAYARD.

—James Beatty of Sington, Clearfield county, is missing and it is feared he has been killed by the cave in of a mine near Philipsburg. Mr. Beatty on Thursday called on the owner of the mine with the view of operating. Since that time the mine has caved in, and it is thought he may have been in it at the time and has perished by fire damp.

Death of Mrs. Robert Corl.

At Linden Hall, on Saturday afternoon at five o'clock and forty minutes, the spirit of Mrs. Margaret Williams Corl left its tenement of clay to "join the innumerable host that move to the bosom of the earth." She was the daughter of William and Sarah Williams, was born at Lemont, Centre county, April 21, 1830, making her age at time of death 72 years 5 months and 20 days. She was ill for six months and gradually grew weaker until the end came.

She leaves to mourn, her husband and six children viz: Mary and Annie at home; William, Robert and James at Pleasant Gap; Charles, at Boalsburg; and one brother James Williams of Bellefonte. She was married to Robert Corl of Lemont in 1853. She was a sincere christian woman, a faithful member of the Presbyterian church in which she was an active and prominent member, a kind and obliging neighbor loved and respected by all who were acquainted with her, she will be sincerely mourned by a large circle of friends.

The funeral took place from her late home on Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock and was conducted by Rev. D. E. Hepler of Lemont assisted by Rev. Stonecypher, of Boalsburg. Interment in the Branch cemetery.

A Pretty Wedding.

With the splendors of a perfect October day smiling approval, the marriage of Miss Nannie Bailey and Charles Mothersbaugh was celebrated at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bailey of Boalsburg Tuesday.

Just at noon the ceremony was performed by Rev. D. E. Hepler of the Presbyterian church in the presence of a large number of guests. After congratulations an elaborate wedding breakfast was served. The bride and groom departed on the afternoon train for Pittsburg where they will spend their honeymoon visiting friends and seeing the sights in the smoky city. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bailey of Boalsburg, an amiable and accomplished young lady with a host of friends in the home of her birth, loved and respected by all with whom she is brought in contact.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Mothersbaugh and one of Centre county's most prized and thorough school teachers.

This paper joins with their host of friends in wishing them a long, prosperous and happy life with lots of little Mothersbaugh's to cheer their old age and soften their pathway to the tomb.

Death of Samuel Schmidt.

Samuel Schmidt died at his home in Sandusky, Ohio, Sunday morning, of blood poisoning, aged 61 years. He was formerly from Bellefonte. He is survived by three brothers and two sisters, viz: Henry, of Philadelphia; Coleman, Houtzdale; Solomon, Misses Bertha and Rosa of Philipsburg. He also leaves a family of three children, all married, his wife having died last February.

UNCLAIMED LETTER LIST.

The following letters remain in the Bellefonte Post Office uncalled for Oct. 13, 1902:

Carrie Corman, John Eddings, Mrs. F. Koch, Sallie Martin, Kate Nearheart, T. D. Ray, Dr. John K. Stites, Miss S. Thomas.

When called for please say advertised.

Opening of the Hunting Season.

Wednesday being the first day of the hunting season, there was a great exodus of nimrods, to the various hunting grounds in this section of the county. They were all armed to the teeth with every conceivable kind of weapons, from the gatling gun, to the harmless cap pistol, and the ammunition carried was of great variety, from solid shot down to liquid fire. Many carried it in a belt around their waists, whilst quite a number used their hip pockets for the purpose. Dealers in sportsmen's supplies and hotel bars being in competition, as to which would furnish the largest quantity.

Of course there will be some marvelous stories of adventures and results to be published next week, but as is usually the case, the adventures will greatly exceed results.

There is one party, however, out Wednesday, who we are confident will bring something with them to verify any statements they may make. We refer to Drs. Philip Fisher of Zion and "Buz". Parrish of our town. In order to be on the ground at an early hour, they started Tuesday night at eight o'clock for the scene of action, and were provided with every imaginable style of supplies, but with the exception of a game bag and leggins one would imagine they were going to start a drug store instead of hunting game.

"Buz", looked like a "dead game" sport, with his leggins worn with the hind side before, a spatula stuck in his belt, red hunting shirt, and a satchel in each hand. Dr. Fisher carried nothing but a "throw net" and a small bottle of tooth ache drops, but told us that the rest of the outfit was in his buggy.

We will give an account of their expedition next week, when we will publish a list of hunters, with the amount of game secured.

A Handsome Souvenir.

We were shown Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Valentine, a beautiful and elaborate souvenir, it being an invitation from the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce to be present at the 25th annual ball, in honor of the "Veiled Prophet" and his Court, which event took place in that city last week. Mr. and Mrs. Valentine receive invitations to this celebration every year, and they are always of a unique and expensive design, this year, however, excels any that have previously been issued, and is very costly. It consists of a beautiful brass clock surmounted by a dragon and the date of the ball being on the vase. The invitation proper is on a card with an engraving of the Prophet and other emblems. Their names are engraved on other cards of singular design, and there is still another circular card about a foot in diameter, which is cleverly arranged to illustrate different scenes and incidents connected with the Louisana purchase. All together it is something out of the ordinary, and if opportunity offers, we advise our readers to see it.

Rev. R. Crittenden handed us an apple Monday which exceeded in size almost any thing in that line we ever saw it being fully a foot in circumference. It looks toothsome, but as yet have not had the moral courage to cut into it. It was grown in Lycoming county, where he was visiting a flourishing Union Sunday School.

Mr. Bernard Vaughan who has been superintendent of the Upper Match Factory has resigned his position, and with his wife and child left Monday for Olean N. Y. for a visit. We do not know where he will engage in business but being a practical manufacturer there is no doubt he will secure a firm position. We regret his departure from our town as he was one of our best citizens.

Mr. W. W. Montgomery is entertaining at his residence, on Allegheny street, his cousin Mr. John Montgomery of Lake City, Minn. Mr. Montgomery was a former resident of Lewistown, but left that place for the west in 1857, being then but twelve years of age. This is the first visit he has made east since that time, and is surprised at the marvelous growth of population and industries in his native town. Like his cousin, with whom he is visiting, he has a penchant for serving Uncle Sam, and during Mr. Cleveland's second administration was post master of his adopted city. At present and for many years past, he has been engaged extensively in the grocery business, and is one of the substantial citizens of Lake City. He brought with him and presented to Mr. W. W. Montgomery the old family bible, over one hundred years old with records running back to the time when their ancestors lived in Ballynahinch, County Down, Ireland.
